University of Nebraska - Lincoln
DigitalCommons@University of Nebraska - Lincoln

Industrial and Management Systems Engineering -- Instructional Materials | Industrial and Management Systems Engineering

10-1-1999

Introduction to Industrial Engineering: Group Resume

Paul Savory
University of Nebraska at Lincoln, psavory2@gmail.com

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.unl.edu/imseteach

Part of the Industrial Engineering Commons

Savory, Paul, "Introduction to Industrial Engineering: Group Resume" (1999). Industrial and Management Systems Engineering -- Instructional Materials. Paper 24.
http://digitalcommons.unl.edu/imseteach/24

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Industrial and Management Systems Engineering at DigitalCommons@University of Nebraska - Lincoln. It has been accepted for inclusion in Industrial and Management Systems Engineering -- Instructional Materials by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@University of Nebraska - Lincoln.

IE 150	Exercise 2: Group Resume

Resumes typically describe an individual's accomplishments. Since each of you has an incredible array of talents and experiences, let's create a group resume to become acquainted with your fellow classmates.

First, we need to divide up into teams of 3 to 4 students. Each of your should record your group's response to the following questions:

[1] What are your group member's names?

[2] What countries are represented by your group?

[3] How many years (or days/hours) of college experience is within your group?

[4] What is the average number of credit hour being taken by your group this semester?

[5] What countries has your group traveled to?

[6] How many group members are living in the dorm? In an apartment? In a house?

[7] How many years of work experience does your group have?

[8] Excluding this class, is there another common class among some of the group members?

[9] What are some of your group's hobbies?