Objectives

1. To provide information from children about violence against children to key decision makers in Government, International Organizations, and NGO’s.

2. To find out children’s perceptions and misconceptions so that appropriate education can be provided to children and youth.
Why listen to children?

- UN Convention on the Rights of the Child - Article 12 - Children have the right to be heard in things that affect them.
- They are the ones experiencing the violence so they are the ones who understand it.
- Children need to be seen as not just beneficiaries of adult led interventions but those who can shape their own future.
- If children feel heard their self esteem is raised and they can become participatory citizens.
Ethical considerations

- Children were informed the purpose of the exercise and given choices about being involved or not.
- Parents were not able to be informed before-hand due to logistics.
- After the exercise children were given a contact point if they needed to talk to someone and reassured the information would be used.
Role Play Focus Group – Who?

- 5 Girls and 5 Boys aged 12-14 years were selected by local NGO’s from 6 locations
  - A rural area in Kampot (CADFP)
  - An urban area in Phnom Penh – Chak Angre Leu (Servants to Asia’s Urban Poor/TASK)
  - A provincial town: Kampong Cham (Innerchange)
  - A border town: Pailin (CHO)
  - A tribal area: Rattanikiri
Questionnaire Survey – Who?

- 10 Children, 5 Girls and 5 Boys aged 13-14 years were invited from 5 schools in each of the 24 Provinces
- Total of 1,314 children:
- 12 yrs 7.6%; 13 yrs 40.3%; 14 yrs 42.5% and 15 yrs 9.1%

Do you think being sold is…?

2.0% children said “Sometimes right. Sometimes wrong”.

95.1% children said “Always Wrong”
Why are children sold?

Children’s responses varied.

- Many understood poverty underlying cause and
- some say parents tricked

But…

- most children understood so are adults that gullable?
- As one child said, “Even the wild cruel animal never eats its children”
Why are children being sold?

- Poverty 72%
  “Because they have no ability to support their children’s lives and manipulated into thinking their children will get a good job”.

- Tricked by trafficker 21%
  “Because they were manipulated by the trafficker into thinking that they will have a good job but instead they were forced to work as a prostitute”.

- Demand from sex industry 23%
  “Because the trafficker wants to make money from selling the children”.

STOP VIOLENCE AGAINST US!

    - 32.9% one
    - 18.4% two
    - 27.0% thee or more

- Of children who said they had been bullied
  - 26% said they had ‘seen’ a child rape (compared to 19.7% who had not been bullied)
  - 19.2% experienced genital touching after 9 yrs (compared to 14.2% who had not been bullied)

- See Qualitative Chart
Questions to ask ourselves

- How can we distribute our resources more fairly between addressing international issues (tourists/mafia) and ‘domestic’ issues (sexual abuse/exploitative child labor)?
- Where are the resources to help boys as well as girls who have been sexually abused and exploited?
- How can children be helped to find ways to challenge their elders if they are being abusive towards them or others?
- Is parents ‘being tricked’ into selling their children an urban myth?
Recommendations - Policy

- Not only revision but implementation of the law is vital – rapists and traffickers need to be prosecuted. Bribes are unacceptable.
- More preventative community based strategies and programmes are needed.
- Creative education for children in what is appropriate/inappropriate touch and finding a safe adult.
- Poverty reduction through income generating for youth and their parents.
- Children remind adults that they need to take their responsibilities to protect them seriously.
Recommendations - Research

- If data is not available from UN agencies then NGOs may need to do it themselves.
- More research is needed on what makes some poor families more resilient and less likely to have children sold than others.
- More research is needed on trafficking other than for sexual purposes.
- Are their differences between provinces so some areas are more at risk? If so, how should we prioritize?
- How do children’s views differ from adults?
- How can their views and contexts be better understood in developing policy/programs?
