ABSTRACT

John Cotton's Milk for Babes (also known as Spiritual Milk for Babes), a beginning catechism for children and young Christians, was first published in the 1640s and remained in print continuously for over 200 years. In a series of 64 questions and answers, it rehearses sin and the law, the ten commandments, the role of the Church, the nature of grace, the covenant, salvation, the sacraments, and the last judgment. It is annotated with 203 marginal Bible references on which Cotton based his statement of the fundamental Puritan credo. In its 13 small pages, Cotton's catechism encompasses the Reformed Protestant faith in simple, succinct, and eloquent language that passed into general usage and, ultimately, into the New England subconscious.

The oldest surviving copy of Milk for Babes was published in London in 1646. It was reprinted many times on both sides of the Atlantic, and at least eight editions from the seventeenth century are known. Between 1690 and 1701, it was first incorporated into The New-England Primer, and it remained an essential component of that work and an integral part of American religious education for the next 150 years.

John Cotton (1584-1652) was by most accounts the preeminent minister and theologian of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. He was educated at Cambridge and was a leader of the Independents or Puritans in England. In 1633, to avoid prosecution for nonconformity, he came to Massachusetts, where he served as "Teacher" for the church in Boston until his death.

This online electronic edition of Milk for Babes contains the entire text of the earliest known printing from 1646. It also includes a brief textual history and an added appendix giving the text of all 203 Bible passages cited, keyed to the questions and answers to which Cotton applied them.

Note on the Text

The earliest surviving edition of John Cotton's shorter catechism, Milk for Babes. Drawn out of the Breasts of Both Testaments, was printed at London in 1646. The catechism was probably composed in 1641, and copies may have been printed by Samuel Daye at Cambridge in New England between 1641 and 1645. Whether the London edition of 1646 was set from manuscript or from an earlier printed issue is not known. Another edition with the same title may have been issued at London in 1648. The earliest extant American edition (surviving in only one badly defective copy) was printed at Cambridge in 1656, with the title Spiritual Milk for Boston Babes in Either England. Drawn out of the Breasts of Both Testaments. Later editions that have survived are those of London in 1657, 1662, 1668, and 1672—this last described as “Corrected in Quotations by L. H.”—and all titled Spiritual Milk for Babes. An edition published in Boston in 1684 is also known, with the title Spiritual Milk for Boston Babes. The work was translated into Natick Algonquin by Grindal Rawson and issued as Nashauanittue Meninnunk wutch Mukkiesog, Wussesèmun wutch Sogkodtunganash Naneeswe Testamentsash (Cambridge, 1691). The Indian version does not include the biblical references.

Milk for Babes was incorporated by Benjamin Harris into the New-England Primer (first published c.1688-1690) at least as early as 1701, although no copies any editions of the Primer before 1727 are known to survive. Surviving copies do not contain the marginal Bible citations. Throughout the eighteenth century some versions of the New-England Primer included Milk for Babes, while others included the “Shorter Westminster” catechism, and some versions even included both. (See Paul Leicester Ford, ed., The New-England Primer: A History of Its Origin and Development [New York, 1897], pp. 18, 41-44). Cotton's grandson, Cotton Mather, incorporated Milk for Babes into his anonymous work Maschil, or, The Faithful Instructor (Boston, 1702) and also into his anonymous The Man of God Furnished. The Way of Truth, Laid Out; with a Threefold Catechism (Boston, 1708). 14

Cotton's title “Milk for Babes” may have been suggested by earlier English catechisms, such as William Crashaw's Milke for Babes. Or, A North-Countrie Catechisme. Made Plaine and Easie, to the Capacitie of the Countrie People (London, 1617 [also 1618, 1622, and 1633]); Hugh Peters' Milke for Babes, and Meate for Men (Amsterdam, 1630; London, 1641); or William Dickenson's Milke for Babes: The English Catechisme, Set Downe in the Common-Prayer Booke (Oxford 1628). Another contemporary catechism with a similar title was Robert Abbot's Milk for Babes: or, a Mother's Catechism for Her Children (London, 1646). The title may, in fact, have been supplied by the printer, as it was apparently in common use for simple or beginning catechisms. On the history of the New England catechisms, see Wilberforce Eames, Early New England Catechisms: A Bibliographical Account of Some Catechisms Published before the Year 1800, for Use in New England (1898), especially pages 21-26, 62, 81-87; on the 1672 London edition, see Benjamin Franklin V, “The Identity of L.H., Amender of John Cotton's Milk for Babes,” Resources for American Literary Study 25.2 (1999), pp. 159-173, and also his “Goodman Brown and the Puritan Catechism,” ESQ 40:1 (1994), no. 154, pp. 66-88.

Milk for Babes, as published in 1646, contains two typographically distinct portions: 1) the questions and answers, and 2) the biblical references cited in support of the answers and printed in a column in the outer margins. These marginal citations presented obvious challenges to the typesetter(s), who often struggled to fit them within the small space allotted, and occasionally neglected to include the text callouts for them, misnumbered (or mis-lettered) the sequence, or otherwise misattributed or mismatched the citation and reference. Furthermore, being relegated to the margins of the page, they were printed less distinctly and have suffered more wear and deterioration in the surviving copies, so that punctuation (inconsistently applied to begin with) is sometimes speculative in varying degrees. Mostly, this relates to distinguishing commas from periods: sometimes the abbreviated book names were followed by periods, sometimes not; sometimes verses were separated by commas, and sometimes by periods. Fortunately, two surviving copies of the 1646 London edition are available for comparison: one in the Henry E. Huntington Library and the other in the British Museum—both are available in the Early English Books Online series.

Occasionally reference has been made for confirmation to the London 1657 edition and to the badly defective Cambridge 1656 edition.

In all cases, the marginal citations in this electronic text have been compared to the Bible passage (in the King James version) they reference. In one instance, an emendation of a probable typographical error has been made, based on the relevance of the passage referenced. In many cases, the verse cited may not appear to have an immediate and obvious bearing on the “Question” being answered, but it has not been undertaken to amend Cotton’s Bible references to ones thought more suitable (as “L.H.” did in 1672), because the application of scripture to questions of doctrine and creed may proceed by other than the most direct and obvious route. In fact, the exegetical process whereby Cotton justified his faith on Bible grounds may at least be suggested by reporting his starting point in scripture and his endpoint in the catechism. As an aid to those who may attempt to reconstruct his hermeneutic process, all the Bible verse cited are presented in a separate Appendix, along with the Questions to which Cotton applies them.

This electronic edition of Milk for Babes reproduces the text of the earliest surviving edition printed at London in 1646. The spelling, capitalization, italics, and punctuation are those of the original. A few typographical errors in the main text have been corrected, and these are listed below. The questions are sometimes introduced by “Q.”, sometimes by “Qu.”, and sometimes by “Quest.”; the answers are introduced by either “A.”, “Ans.”, or “Answ.”, and sometimes a flourish capital A is used. These features are reproduced in this electronic edition, and no attempt has been made to regularize them.

In the marginal columns of biblical references, each new reference is begun on a new line in this electronic edition—a practice generally, but not universally, followed by the original typesetters. In the 1646 edition, abbreviations of book names are sometimes followed by a period and sometimes not; some entire citations are followed by a trailing period, and others are not. The only regularizations introduced in this electronic edition are to follow the book number with a period, and to separate all verse numbers by commas and spaces; in the original, periods are sometimes used to separate verse numbers, and spaces are used or not, as room was available. In all cases where the original has been emended, the original orthography or punctuation may be reconstructed from the list of emendations presented below.

In several places, the typesetters neglected to place the call-outs either in the text or in front of the marginal citations or in both places, although the sequence of letters continues as though they were appropriately set. These are noted in the list of emendations. Parenthetical letters have not been placed in the main text wherever the referenced verse citations are obviously set next to them. At —, however, where the typesetter clearly was challenged to make all the references fit within the space allowed, the marginal citations skip from a to c, although there is a parenthetical (b) to which some of the references under a obviously belong. Based on the subject matter of the quotations referenced, a marginal b has been supplied. This suggests a further problem in the original, since it makes one reference—Zach. 12.10—appear twice within the same group; in this electronic edition, the second appearance under this head is omitted.

In one instance, however, the parenthetical letter is apparently missing and the sequence of letters is interrupted, with a marginal citation labeled o placed next to a line containing a parenthetical (n), while six lines above there is a marginal citation n with no corresponding parenthetical letter. Since the next parenthetical letter following is a (p), it is obvious that a parenthetical (o) has been skipped and the (n) misplaced. In this electronic edition, the original parenthetical (n) has been emended to a parenthetical (o) and a parenthetical (n) has been added to the text of the previous answer to match the marginal citation.

The following two lists of emendations show typographical errors corrected in 1) the main text, and 2) the marginal citations. Line numbers refer to either the text or marginal column, as appropriate; line counts do not include running heads or page numbers.

The typeface used in this edition is IM Fell English, digitized and furnished by Iginio Marini (<http://iginomarini.com>), based on seventeenth-century originals probably cut by Christoffel van Dijck (roman) and Robert Granjon (italic). In deference to modern readers, and except on the title page, the long s has not been used; and, for the sake of more accurate searching and excerpting, the ligatures for sh, st, ct, fi, fl, ff, ffi, and ffl have not been employed. The headpiece is a reconstruction of the one in the London 1646 edition.

EXO. 20.17 Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's.

k What is the coveting here forbidden?

ROM. 7.7 What shall we say then? Is the law sin? God forbid. Nay, I had not known sin, but by the law: for I had not known lust, except the law had said, Thou shalt not covet.

HEB. 13.5 Let your conversation be without covetousness; and be content with such things as ye have: for he hath said, I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee.

n How look you then to be saved?

ACTS 4.12 Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved.

o Who is Jesus Christ?

1 JOHN 5.20 For the Father loveth the Son, and sheweth him all things that himself doeth: and he will shew him greater works than these, that ye may marvel.

PROV. 8.23-25 <sup>23</sup>I was set up from everlasting, from the beginning, or ever the earth was. <sup>24</sup>When there were no depths, I was brought forth; when there were no fountains abounding with water. <sup>25</sup>Before the mountains were settled, before the hills was I brought forth:

JOHN 1.14 And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth.

2 COR. 8.9 For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich.

q How do we come to have part and fellowship with Christ, in his Death and Resurrection?

- John 17.20-21    <sup>20</sup>Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word; <sup>21</sup>That they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us: that the world may believe that thou hast sent me.
- 2 Cor. 5.20        Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us: we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God.
- 1 Cor. 6.17        But he that is joined unto the Lord is one spirit.

r What is his Word?

- 2 Tim. 3.15-16    <sup>15</sup>And that from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus. <sup>16</sup>All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness:

- Rom. 3.20        Therefore by the deeds of the law there shall no flesh be justified in his sight: for by the law is the knowledge of sin.
- Gal. 3.10        For as many as are of the works of the law are under the curse: for it is written, Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things which are written in the book of the law to do them.
- Gal. 3.24        Wherefore the law was our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ, that we might be justified by faith.
- Rom. 7.9, 10     <sup>9</sup>For I was alive without the law once: but when the commandment came, sin revived, and I died. <sup>10</sup>And the commandment, which was ordained to life, I found to be unto death.

t What are you thereby the nearer to Christ?

- Gal. 3.10        For as many as are of the works of the law are under the curse: for it is written, Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things which are written in the book of the law to do them.
- Gal. 3.24        Wherefore the law was our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ, that we might be justified by faith.

u How doth the Ministry of the Gospell helpe you in this cursed Estate?

- Luke 3.4-6        <sup>4</sup>As it is written in the book of the words of Esaias the prophet, saying, The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight. <sup>5</sup>Every valley shall be filled, and every mountain and hill shall be brought low; and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough ways shall be made smooth; <sup>6</sup>And all flesh shall see the salvation of God.

- John 16.7-9     <sup>7</sup>Nevertheless I tell you the truth; It is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will send him unto you. <sup>8</sup>And when he is come, he will reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment: <sup>9</sup>Of sin, because they believe not on me;
- John 6.44        No man can come to me, except the Father which hath sent me draw him: and I will raise him up at the last day.
- Luke 19.10      For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost.

2 Cor. 5.19-20	<sup>19</sup> To wit, that God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them; and hath committed unto us the word of reconciliation. <sup>20</sup> Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us: we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God.
Song 5.10-16 ("Can.")	<sup>10</sup> My beloved is white and ruddy, the chiefest among ten thousand. <sup>11</sup> His head is as the most fine gold, his locks are bushy, and black as a raven. <sup>12</sup> His eyes are as the eyes of doves by the rivers of waters, washed with milk, and fitly set. <sup>13</sup> His cheeks are as a bed of spices, as sweet flowers: his lips like lilies, dropping sweet smelling myrrh. <sup>14</sup> His hands are as gold rings set with the beryl: his belly is as bright ivory overlaid with sapphires. <sup>15</sup> His legs are as pillars of marble, set upon sockets of fine gold: his countenance is as Lebanon, excellent as the cedars. <sup>16</sup> His mouth is most sweet: yea, he is altogether lovely. Rom. 16.25-26	<sup>25</sup> Now to him that is of power to stablish you according to my gospel, and the preaching of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the mystery, which was kept secret since the world began, <sup>26</sup> But now is made manifest, and by the scriptures of the prophets, according to the commandment of the everlasting God, made known to all nations for the obedience of faith:
2 Cor. 10.4-5	<sup>4</sup> (For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strong holds;) <sup>5</sup> Casting down imaginations, and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ;
z What is Faith?
Phil. 1.29	For unto you it is given in the behalf of Christ, not only to believe on him, but also to suffer for his sake;

- 2 Cor. 4.13 We having the same spirit of faith, according as it is written, I believed, and therefore have I spoken; we also believe, and therefore speak;
- Phil 3.8-9 <sup>8</sup>Yea doubtless, and I count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord: for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and do count them but dung, that I may win Christ, <sup>9</sup>And be found in him, not having mine own righteousness, which is of the law, but that which is through the faith of Christ, the righteousness which is of God by faith:
