Why are we doing this?

1. Assess how well our policies, practices, and procedures support our mission
2. Assess whether our policies, practices, and procedures are facilitating the current and future needs of our customers
3. To develop a database of norms to help the library interpret its results
Gallup vs ClimateQUAL

- Not designed for higher education or libraries
- Large set of data that are not shared
- Expensive

- Designed for academic libraries
- Leverages culture of sharing among libraries
- Affordable
Why should I take ClimateQUAL?

1. We want UNL Libraries to be an employer of choice
2. Your opinion matters, be heard, get involved
3. We need you help to reach our final destination...
Final Destination

A dynamic workplace that attracts and retains the most talented people who positively impact the customers we are trying to serve
Do I have to participate?

- No, but we want to afford all employees an opportunity to voice their opinion.
- The more responses we receive, the more information we have to make improvements.
- We want to know if our work climate treats all of our employees with dignity, courtesy, and respect.
How do I know that my feedback has not been hidden or ignored?

- Everyone will know how his or her department compares to the total organization.
- Everyone will know how UNL compares to other libraries.
When can I expect to get feedback?

1. We will have access to the data online sometime in May.
2. It will take the University of Maryland at least 3 months to code and aggregate the data.
3. Information regarding the process will be shared through the wiki, emails, and other communications.
What will the Deans Office Do with the Results?

- The university of Maryland will extrapolate themes for the libraries
- Work with UNL HR and other experts to identify & interpret strengths and weaknesses
- Work with UNL HR and other experts to develop interventions
How will interventions be communicated and implemented?

- The Dean’s office is committed to this process, and to providing information as we move forward together.
- All library staff and faculty will have access to the report.
  - Libraries at Large
  - UNL Libraries Report
  - Department Reports

- Although the survey was designed for all browsers, some libraries found that Internet Explorer is best.
