Editor’s Note

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Anthropology Group and the UNL Anthropology Department are committed to encouraging a diverse approach to the study and practice of anthropology. This is reflected in the activities of the UNL Anthropology Group and the Anthropology Department, both sponsors of this publication. The articles in this volume represent a range of topics submitted by anthropology students as well as students in other disciplines.

Acknowledgements

Many thanks are due to a number of people. First of all, thanks go to all the student contributors who were brave enough to submit their papers for peer review.

Next, the editorial staff, all busy students, spent a great deal of time reviewing, editing, and discussing the submissions.

Special thanks also go to the faculty of the Anthropology department for encouraging students to submit their papers.

The responsibility for the final appearance of the volume, including any flaws, remains mine.
