TINY TASTES Can Total BIG CALORIES Over the Holiday Season

Alice Henneman, MS, RDN
UNL Extension Educator

THE EXTRA CALORIES sometimes sneak up on us over the winter holidays. They don’t always arrive in the form of large portions of calorie-laden food. Rather, they may tiptoe through many tiny tastes throughout the day.

Let’s look at “Holly Day’s” food diary for one day and view how those “tiny tastes” can add up. Calories are approximate and will vary, depending on brand, recipe, exact serving size, etc.

<thead>
<tr>
<th>TASTE</th>
<th>Description</th>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>Oops! I broke that cookie removing it from the baking sheet. I’ll just eat the half that didn’t get all crumbled up. I deserve it for getting up early to bake these cookies before heading to work. Approx. 30 calories</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>Someone brought holiday candy to work today! I’ll just have one small piece of the peanut brittle. Approx. 80 calories</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>It’s mid-afternoon and I still haven’t eaten lunch. I need to pick up a few things at the grocery store before I swing through a fast food place for a quick bite. The grocery store is offering food samples – I’ll just eat a little cracker with spread to tide me over until I get to lunch. Approx. 40 calories</td>
</tr>
<tr>

<td>The fast food place is giving out 1/4 cup samples of its special flavored holiday coffee. I can’t pass that up! Approx. 20 calories</td>

TOTAL TASTING CALORIES FOR THE DAY

635

If comparable types of “tiny tastes” are continued throughout the holidays, it might be possible to gain as much as a pound a week! On average, an additional 3,500 calories above your body’s needs can lead to a weight gain of a pound. On the flip side, cutting back on just 100 extra calories per day can lead to a weight loss of 10 pounds per year.

Maybe the tiny taste isn’t so small after all.

Quick, 5-Ingredient Recipes

Alice Henneman, MS, RDN
UNL Extension Educator

Five is the magic number for ingredients we want in a recipe. As the holiday season gets busier, it’s important we don’t neglect healthy eating. Following are three recipes that taste great and can be made quickly!

MICROWEAVE MEXICAN OMELET

I usually make scrambled eggs as my omelets turn out looking like scrambled eggs, anyway. However, this omelet recipe from the American Egg Board is definitely different. Above is a photo of how it turned out the first time I made it. I definitely will be making it again. I only had regular cheese (versus a Mexican cheese blend) in my fridge and it turned out great this way also! Mexican-style ingredients spice up this quick and easy microwave omelet. (This recipe is brought to you by America’s egg farmers. For more recipes and nutritional information, go to www.incredibleegg.org.)

(Prop Time: 1 minute • Cook Time: 2-1/2 minutes • Servings: 1-2 servings)

2 eggs
2 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon butter
Shredded Mexican cheese blend

Orange & Sweet Potato Pork Chops

This recipe is a great source of protein and the sweet potatoes add important vitamin A. Thanks to the orange and cinnamon flavoring, you may be able to skip the salt entirely. Once you’ve assembled this main dish, you’re free to do something else while it is baking. Read the paper, take a walk, put in a load of wash or just relax! I had company the night I prepared this and it was easy to toss in an extra pork chop and add another sweet potato.

(Makes 2 servings)

2 pork chops
1 sweet potato (peeled)
1/2 orange (sliced)
1 dash cinnamon
1 dash salt (optional)
1 dash black pepper (optional)

Preheat oven to 350°F. In a medium skillet, brown pork chops in a small amount of oil. Cut sweet potato into 1/2-inch slices. Place meat and sweet potato slices in a baking dish and top with orange slices; sprinkle with seasonings. Cover and bake for 1 hour until meat is tender. Pork is safely cooked when it has been heated to 145°F, followed by a 3 minute rest.

Alice’s Notes: In assembling this dish, I put the sweet potatoes on the bottom, followed by a sprinkling of cinnamon. Next, the pork. Then last bit of orange on top of the sweet potatoes as it baked. Then, I added a dash of pepper on top of the pork.

Pumpkin Ice Cream Pie

This frozen ice cream pumpkin pie recipe is quick to make, can be prepared in advance, and adds some extra vitamin A and calcium to your meal!

(Makes 8 servings)

1 can (15 to 16 ounce) pure pumpkin paree
1/4 cup sugar
1-1/2 to 2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice, depending on how spicy a flavor you enjoy*
1 quart (4 cups) of a low fat vanilla ice cream or frozen yogurt, softened
1 9-inch prepared graham cracker pie crust

Whipped topping, if desired

Mix the pumpkin, sugar and spice until well blended. Quickly mix pumpkin mixture with the softened ice cream. Pour into crumb crust and freeze, uncovered, until firm – about 2 hours. When pie is frozen, cover with plastic wrap and then cover with freezer-quality foil or place in a freezer bag and squish out the air. Thaw pie slightly at room temperature (about 5-10 minutes) before serving. Top with whipped topping, if desired.

*If you don’t have pumpkin pie spice, for each teaspoon of pumpkin pie spice, you can substitute a combination of 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger 1/8 teaspoon ground nutmeg 1/8 teaspoon ground cloves

Soften ice cream by placing the container in the refrigerator for about 15-20 minutes. Avoid repeat microwaving as it can affect the quality of the ice cream.
With Kids and Divorce There’s More Than a “Day” in Holiday

For most of us, the best childhood memories center on special family times like vacations and holidays. The traditions we form during these early, formative years—memories that remind us what “family” means.

How do children of divorce experience these holiday occasions? Holidays may provoke intense emotions for both parents and children—especially in the first year after the divorce. Parents play a role in how children experience holidays and special days such as birthdays. There are some things parents can keep in mind to help ease the difficulty of holidays.

Parents need to decide well in advance of the holiday or occasion where the child will be and what type of schedule is expected. It may please the parents to have their children be part of all of the family festivities, but it may be an unrealistic amount of travel and excitement, parents need to think about what they want to accomplish in the plan. Older children will want to help decide how they spend their day, and if reasonable, parents should try to make it work. When dividing the holidays, parents should explore every possibility. Examine what the most significant aspects of the holiday are for the parents and children and see what makes sense for the family. Some parents alternate holidays, or have the children spend the “eve” in one home and the “day” in another. Especially during the first year, children often feel the intense pain of not being able to spend holidays with both parents together.

Here are some additional guidelines for holiday plans:

1. Talk often with your children.
2. Hug them, hold them and discipline them calmly, predictably, and consistently.
3. Listen carefully as your children communicate with you.
4. Read aloud to your children every day, even when they are babies. Play and sing with them often.
5. Say “yes” and “I love you” as much as you say “no” and “don’t.”
6. Ensure a safe, orderly and predictable environment, wherever they are.
7. Set limits on their behavior and discipline them calmly, not harshly. Source: Early Development Network Baby Can’t Wait

Co-Parenting for Successful Kids

University of Nebraska–Lincoln Extension offers “Co-Parenting for Successful Kids” classes to help separating and divorcing parents develop plans for respectful, responsive and responsible co-parenting. These research-based classes meet Nebraska court-mandated requirements. The class is offered on-site locations across Nebraska and online. Cost is $50.

Since 1999, 13,257 parents carrying or over 23,862 children have participated. This year, a six-month follow-up survey indicated over 90 percent of class participants are using strategies they learned in the class to keep their child(ren) out of the middle of the conflict with the other parent.

One online class participant said, “I wish the course was mandated before having kids. Very effective and common sense materials!” In Lincoln, classes are taught at the Lancaster Extension Education Center, 444 Cherrycreke Road, on the following Thursdays:

- Dec. 4, 9 a.m.–12:30 p.m.
- Jan. 8, 9:30 a.m.–1 p.m.
- March 12, 12:30–4 p.m.
- April 9, 9:30–1 p.m.
- May 14, 12:30–4 p.m.
- June 25, 9:30–1 p.m.
- Aug. 13, 12:30–4 p.m.
- Sept. 10, 9:30 a.m.–1 p.m.
- Oct. 8, 12:30–4 p.m.
- Dec. 3, 9:30–1 p.m.

For more information about the statewide on-site and online classes, go to http://extension.unl.edu/divorce or call 855-308-8037. To register for classes in Lancaster County, call 402-441-7180.

Q: How often should my furnace filter be changed?

Most pleated air filters should be changed check-frequency. When to change them depends on the type of filter and family life style. Households with smokers or pets should change filters monthly. Can dog hair clog furnace and air conditioner filters. If you use the one-inch pleated filters, which are usually less expensive, it is recommended to change them monthly. The high-efficiency (three-inch) filters should be changed every three months as they collect a large percentage of all allergen, dust particles, etc. The non-disposable washable filters should be cleaned every month.

The best rule of thumb is to check the filter monthly and change as needed, due to the season and family life style.

UNL Speakers Bureau in 20th Year

Looking for a speaker for your organization, club or classroom? University of Nebraska–Lincoln’s Speakers Bureau is comprised of a diverse selection of faculty and staff who can speak with authority and passion on a wide range of topics, from social networking to Nebraska’s grape and wine industry to tornadoes ... and much more.

For over 20 years, the Speakers Bureau has become one of UNL’s most visible and successful outreach programs, and has engaged Nebraskans via guest lectures at civic organizations, book clubs, churches, public schools and community gatherings. If you are a UNL faculty or staff member and would like to become a speaker and discuss your area of expertise with others, please contact the Speakers Bureau.

For more information, go to www.speakersbureau.unl.edu.

AARP Driver Safety Program

In this class you will learn driving strategies which encourage confidence and safer driving, including:

- defensive driving techniques,
- new traffic laws and rules of the road,
- how to deal with aggressive drivers,
- techniques to safely handle driving situations, such as left turns, right-of-ways, and blind spots,
- and how to make the best use of safety features found in most automobiles.

There is no test. Course participants may be eligible to take a discount on car insurance. Course fee will be $20 for non-members, payable at the door. Payment by check or cash (the exact amount is helpful) is required — credit/debit cards are not accepted. All participants must bring their driver’s license and ID card. AARP members are required to also bring their ID card and number.

America Recycles Day, Nov. 15

America Recycles Day, which takes place annually on and around Nov. 15, recognizes the benefits of recycling while providing an educational platform that helps raise awareness about the value of reducing, reusing and recycling — every day — throughout the year. This year’s America Recycles Day theme, “I Want To Be Recycled,” helps to educate people about the importance of recycling to our economy and environmental well-being, and helps to motivate occasional recyclers to become everyday recyclers.

Register to participate or pledge to recycle today at AmericaRecyclesDay.org. Local organizers can schedule events in their communities and gain access to valuable resources to plan, promote and host an event. Events can be scheduled any time during the fall, but should be held as close to Nov. 15 as possible.

An initiative of Keep America Beautiful, America Recycles Day is the only nationally-recognized day dedicated to promoting and celebrating recycling in the United States.

AARP Driver Safety™ Course

An AARP Smart Driver™ Course will be presented in Lincoln as a one 4-hour session on Friday, Nov. 14, 9 a.m.–1 p.m. at the Lancaster Extension Education Center, 444 Cherrycreke Road, A certified AARP instructor will teach the driving refresher course. This is a new, research-based Smart Driver class for older adults, extensively revised from previous versions. Sign up for the class by calling 402-441-7180. Those attending are encouraged to arrive a few minutes early to complete check-in and registrations procedures. Cost is $15 for AARP members and $20 for non-members, payable at the door. Payment by check or cash (the exact amount is helpful) is required — credit/debit cards are not accepted. All participants must bring their driver’s license and ID card. AARP members are required to also bring their ID card and number.

Soybean stem borers or Dectes stem borers are expanding their territory in Nebraska again this year. They are moving north and east from their first appearance in Nebraska in Jefferson and Thayer Counties a few years ago. This year stem borers can be found in much of saline County, southwest Lancaster and western Gage County. The interesting thing is that producers may not know if borers are present unless serious storms delay harvest and result in plant breakage and harvest losses.

The Dectes stem borer is a small, grayish, longhorned beetle which lays its eggs in soybean petioles. Larvae tunnel down the petiole and into the stem, causing the entire leaf to wilt and die. Dead, wilted and drying leaves above the normal senescence zone at the bottom of the plant can help identify stem borer infestations, but dead leaves are mostly down in the plant canopy and are often overlooked. Bored stalks reveal reddish interior discoloration when split. As soybean plants reach maturity, larvae tunnel to the base of the main stalk. As the plants dry out, larvae girdle the stalk initiating this. This weakens plant stems and can result in lodging if harvest is delayed or significant wind storms challenge the crop. Applications were timed and replicated on-farm studies over a three-year period. Applications were timed and replicated on-farm studies over a three-year period. Applications were timed and replicated on-farm studies over a three-year period.

Our best recommendations at this point are to scout fields and harvest positive fields early in the harvest season. Pay close attention to early planted and early maturing varieties as they tend to have more problems and be aware of fields where you have had problems in the past. Previous research has not established an economic threshold for this insect. Research by Phil Slod Erie and Larry Buschmann at Kansas State University’s Southwest Research and Extension Center, Garden City, Kansas was published in the Journal of Insect Science. They evaluated application of Warrior Insecticide in nine replicated on-farm studies over a three-year period. Applications were timed to correspond with the peak density of Dectes in soybeans and a second treatment was made 14 days later. Here monitored adult densities and end of season percent of plants with larval tunneling. The results varied from year to year. The dual treatments resulted in 74 percent, 88 percent and 89 percent adult control in the treated fields. The resultant tunneling reductions in the fields were 0 percent, 59 percent, and 75 percent. The yield impacts in the fields were all less than one percent, hardly a paying proposition. Insecticide applications to control Dectes may not improve grower profits, and may lead to late season outbreaks of other pests such as spider mites, bean leaf beetle, stink bugs or soybean aphids by eliminating natural enemies which help suppress these arthropod pests.

Gardening Resolutions

Mary Jane Cochran
UNL Extension Associate

Before the successes and failures of the last year’s growing season fade from memory or get pushed aside by the anticipation of another gardening year, why not take a moment to consider the good and important resolutions into resolutions for the coming year.

I resolve to:

• Plant your garden when recommended.
• Limit the size of vegetable and flower gardens to what I can care for properly.
• Store your dried food products in insect-proof containers.
• Buy food in packages you recommended.
• Insecticides are not on inspection and storage of these products.
• Plant cool season crops early and again in mid to late summer for a fall harvest.
• Harvest trees at their peak of quality and maturity. No more giant zucchini or tough beans.
• Once you find a food product infested with pantry pests, your local Extension office for certain foods. Contact there may be an infestation.
• Find Pantry Pests.

Managing Pantry Insects

Soni Cochran
UNL Extension Associate

During the holiday season, people love to bake cookies and other desserts. With all of the flour, nuts and other ingredients purchased and used during the holidays, we get plenty of calls about insects infesting food products. People who feed the birds, squirrels or buy pet food, are also susceptible to a variety of pests that infest these products. So what do you do? Preventing an infestation is key. Focus your prevention efforts on inspection and storage of products. Insecticides are not recommended.

Pantry Pest Prevention Tips

• Buy food in packages you can use up within a couple of months. The longer a food product sits on the shelf, the more likely it could become infested with pantry pests. Use older packages of food before newer ones. Use opened packages before unopened ones. Inspect food packages before buying. Make sure the packaging isn’t damaged and the seals are intact.
• Store incident food products in insect-proof containers: screw-top glass, heavy plastic or metal containers with airtight seals. This prevents pests from getting in and it also prevents pests from getting out if you accidentally bring home an insect-infested product from the store. Cardboard, paper, wax or plastic wrappings do not prevent insect infestations.

Tips: Cut the label off the product before disposing of the original package so you have the preparation directions. Tape the label to the insect-proof container. Keep food storage areas clean. Crumbs and exposed food attracts insects. Pay special attention to the area where you store food and foods needed. Birdseed and dry pet food can be stored in the freezer or in insect-proof, mouse-proof containers stored in the garage away from your pantry.

What to do if You Find Pantry Pests

• Inspect and identify all possible food sources where there may be an infestation. Control involves finding the infested food product(s) and discarding. Don’t overlook unopened or intact packages. Pantry pests can chew their way through cardboard, wax and foil. Identifying the pest may help you in this task since pantry pests have preferences for certain foods. Contact your local Extension office for assistance with pest identification.
• Once you find a food product infested with pantry pests, throw it away or salvage it by freezing the product for three to four days. Freezing will kill pantry pests. Empty the pantry where you found the pantry pests and vacuum thoroughly. Use an attachment on the vacuum to get down into cracks and crevices. Empty the vacuum cleaner and discard the contents to prevent reinfestation.
• Do not use any insecticides to control pests in the pantry areas. Wiping the shelves with detergent, bleach, ammonia or disinfectants also won’t have any effect on pantry pests since they lay their eggs in food. Your best bet is to remove infested items and thoroughly vacuum.
• To prevent reinfection, store your food products in insect-proof containers. You can also keep dry food products in the refrigerator or freezer, if you have room.
• If insects continue to appear, go through your stored items again. Check other rooms in the home for possible sources of infestation. Tree seeds blown into ventilators or around windows may attract and serve as a breeding site for these pests. Some beetles can infest many products including feathers, silk, wool, hide, lint, dead insects and more. Don’t forget to check decorative arrangements used for the holiday season. Many holiday decorations include dried plants, seeds, feathers and more.

Winter Wildlife Projects

Soni Cochran
UNL Extension Associate

Winter is a terrific time to work on projects to help you attract wildlife next spring. Do you want to attract more songbirds? How about bats to help keep down insects like mosquitoes? You can encourage important pollinators by building a bird hotel or nesting box for solitary bees and butterflies. Consider the gift of a bird house, feeder or bird bath. Encourage native solitary bees with the gift of a bee nesting block or house. Gift certificates to your local nursery would make great stocking stuffers. Field guides, journaling notebooks and a set of binoculars are great gifts any time of year.

A University of Nebraska–Lincoln Extension has a number of resources to help you encourage beneficial wildlife to your backyard. Here are just a few available at http://lancaster.unl.edu/pest or at the Extension office:

• “Backyard Wildlife: Feeding Birds” (Nebraska Guide G2063)
• “Backyard Wildlife: Birdhouses & Shelves” (Nebraska Guide G1802)
• “Landscape Plants for Wildlife” (Nebraska Guide G1572)
• “Bat House Construction & Installation” (Nebraska Guide G1575)
• “Attracting Pollinators to Your Landscape” (Nebraska Guide G183)

Binoculars are great gifts for people who love wildlife.
HEART OF 4-H VOLUNTEER AWARD

Kari Price
Lancaster County 4-H is proud to announce Kari Price as winner of November’s “Heart of 4-H Award” in recognition of outstanding volunteer service.

A volunteer for seven years, Kari is a parent volunteer with the Star City Llama/Alpaca 4-H club and helps with llama/alpaca shows at the Lancaster County Super Fair and Nebraska State Fair. A member of 4-H Council, she helps with the food booth and chicken dinner fundraisers at county fair, as well as 4-H events such as Kick Off and Achievement Celebration. In addition, Kari has taught and assisted with workshops at Clover College.

“I like being a 4-H volunteer because the possibilities in 4-H are literally endless,” says Kari. “They have every club you could ever imagine and if they don’t have it, then they allow you the platform to start one. It has also allowed me to meet a lot of great people I would never have come across had it not been for 4-H. My favorite experience as a 4-H volunteer would be teaching several different classes at Clover College. It is only two hours out of your day, but it comes back 10 fold. How could you not love seeing the kids smiling faces after completing their project. They get so excited and they can’t wait to show it off to everyone that walks by.”

Lancaster County 4-H thanks Kari for donating her time and talents. Volunteers like her are indeed the heart of 4-H!

4-H Seeks New Council Members

Serving on Lancaster County 4-H Council is a great opportunity to support 4-H, help provide leadership and work with a great group of people! Lancaster County 4-H Council is composed of youth (9th grade or higher) and adults working together in the interest of promoting activities of Lancaster County 4-H. Meetings are held the first Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. at the Lancaster Extension Education Center. Terms are three years for adults and two years for youth. Each may serve two terms. For more information, contact Tracy at 402-441-7180.

4-H Teen Council Elects Officers

The Lancaster 4-H Teen Council is a leadership organization for youth in grades 7–12. Officers for 2014–2015 will be: Max Wanser (President); Renae Stuck (Vice President); Sheridan Swotek (Secretary), Bailee Gunnerson (Treasurer), Abby Babcock Kylee Plager and Addison Wanser (Historians).

4th & 5th Grade Lock-In, Jan. 16 – 17

All 4th and 5th graders are invited to 4-H Teen Council’s annual overnight Lock-In, which will be held Friday, Jan. 16, 8 p.m.–Saturday, Jan. 17, 8 a.m. This year’s theme will be “Camping Under the Stars.” More information will be in the January Nenevite.

Gary Bergman Retires
Public Invited to Reception Nov. 5

Extension Educator Gary C. Bergman is retiring after nearly 20 years with University of Nebraska–Lincoln Extension in Lancaster County. The public is invited to Gary’s retirement reception on Wednesday, Nov. 5, 3:30–5:30 p.m. at the Lancaster Extension Education Center, 444 Cherrycreek Road, Lincoln.

As unit leader, Gary provided leadership for Extension’s programs in Lancaster County. Locally, Extension is a partnership between UNL and Lancaster County. Through the years, Gary worked with the Lancaster County Commissioners and UNL Southeast District Director to link UNL and county staff, budgets and resources into one team.

Gary networked with the Extension board, community leaders, stakeholders, program partners and elected officials to identify program needs. He hired, trained and supervised staff — helping develop and evaluate programs. He also secured funds and resources for programs such as solid waste education (including Garbology school enrichment), Embryology school enrichment and a million dollar childhood obesity grant (nutrition school enrichment).

A strong advocate for positive youth development, 4-H reached over 20,000 Lancaster County youth annually during Gary’s tenure. He chaired the committee that developed the Nebraska Diamond Clover Recognition Program and served on building committee for the Lancaster Event Center.

In addition, Gary oversaw and promoted the Lancaster Extension Education Center’s facilities which include conference rooms used by non-profit and governmental organizations.

A servant leader, Gary empowered Extension staff to succeed as individuals while fostering teamwork. He led by example and often gave hands-on help, especially with the 4-H program. He continuously encouraged and provided resources for Extension’s use of new technologies to engage the public.

On behalf of the Extension staff, we will miss Gary’s leadership and contributions. He takes to heart the land grant university system’s mission of working with the people they serve.

Prior to Extension, Gary directed the Nebraska LEAD agricultural leadership program for eight years.

2014 UNL Service Awards

Recently, University of Nebraska-Lincoln staff reaching an anniversary year of employment were honored for their years of service to the university. The following UNL Extension in Lancaster County staff were recognized:

• Lorene Bartos, Extension Educator — 45 years of service
• Mary Abbott, Extension Associate — 15 years of service
• Karen Libby, Extension Educator — 15 years of service
• Dona Root-Willeford, Extension Associate — 10 years of service

Thirty-nine members of the UNL faculty received emeritus honors during the 2014 Employee Service Awards ceremony, including two former UNL Extension in Lancaster County faculty. Emeritus status is the rank awarded by UNL Administration to an employee at the time of retirement in recognition of substantial service rendered to the University in teaching, research, extension, or administration in a professional field.

• Tom Dorn, Extension Educator
• Barb Ogg, Extension Educator

Ag Society Annual Meeting, Dec. 18

The Lancaster County Agriculture Society’s Annual Meeting will be held Thursday, Dec. 18 at the Lancaster Event Center, 84th & Havelock, in the Lancaster Room.

Voting will take place 5:30–6:30 p.m. for three positions on Lancaster Agriculture Society Board (three year terms). Any registered voter in Lancaster County may vote.

Any Lancaster County resident interested in running for a position on the board must submit a short biography by Nov. 20 in order to be placed on the ballot. Send the biography to: ATTN: Trudy Pelley, LCAS Secretary; Lancaster Event Center; P.O. Box 29167, Lincoln, NE 68529.

The Annual Meeting, starting at 6:30 p.m., is an opportunity for the public to learn more about the “relaunching” of the Lancaster Extension Center. The regular monthly meeting of the Ag Society will follow the annual meeting. Regular monthly meetings are held the third Thursday of every month.

Henneman Wins National Photography Award

At the National Extension Association of Family & Consumer Sciences (NEAFCS) national conference held September in Kentucky, UNL Extension Educator Alice Henneman received 1st place national winner in the Communication – Photography award for her salmon and dill sauce photo (pictured). The photography award is designed to recognize the use of photography to tell an Extension story or communicate an educational message. Henneman’s photo of the Dill Cucumber Sauce recipe was used several places on the Internet to promote a healthy, quick-to-prepare recipe, including:

• Used on a http://food.unl.edu Web page and pdf handout
• Pinned on a Pinterest Board

At the NEAFCS conference, Alice also presented two sessions and a poster session. Extension Educators Maureen Burson and Gail Brand co-presented a session, “Lessons Learned from Adapting On-site Classes to Online – Co-Parenting for Successful Kids.”
