Vol. 9, No. 3, September 1976

FROM THE DIRECTOR'S DESK

We are planning to test a slight innovation in our practices in our review of Research Bulletins. As you know this class of bulletin has the same publication standards and audience as journal articles. In order to make the review process more comparable we will enlist some peer reviewers (at least one for each manuscript) from other Experiment Stations in the North Central Region. These stations have agreed to cooperate with us in this process. We will give such reviewers the same instructions, and handle their comments in the same way, as in the case of reviewers from our own staff.

The Old West Regional Commission (OWRC)

A number of Station staff members are involved in research projects funded by the Old West Regional Commission. You might like some background on the organization.

The OWRC was created as one of several regional commissions by Congress in 1965. The membership of the Commission consists of the Governors of the five states included, namely South Dakota, North Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, and Nebraska. The headquarters of the Commission is located at Rapid City, South Dakota.

The Commission receives Federal funds annually from Congress, which it uses for various purposes in the interest of economic and social development of the region, including research, education, promotion, and action. Five advisory committees screen proposed activities and make recommended actions to the Commission, namely; these include: Agriculture and Natural Resources, Energy, Human Resources, Industrial Development, and Transportation. An additional committee is an ad hoc committee on Veterinary Science.

Most research proposals originating among our staff are channeled through the advisory committee on agriculture and natural resources. The committee reviews such proposals and acts on them. Those recommended are forwarded to the Commission, which has the final decision.

Typically, research projects funded by the Commission have the following characteristics:

- a) Not more than two years in length (possibly subject to renewal).
- b) Are applied rather than basic in nature. (In other words, giving promise of relatively quick results.)
- c) Do not cover purchase of equipment.
- d) Have regional applications.
- e) Include demonstrational components.

If you desire more information on opportunities for making proposals to OWRC we shall be glad to provide it to you. If you have an idea about a problem which might make a worthy proposal we suggest you talk to us before spending any time in developing a proposal.

GENERAL NOTES

1. Grant and Contract proposal writing tips were well presented in Vol. 1, No. 6, "Graduate Studies and Research Review". I cite this and commend it to your attention in the interest of efficiency and success in procuring outside research support
2. Please try to plan ahead and minimize the number of "carry through" documents: requisitions, movement of copy forms, travel requests, grant proposals, etc.
3. Plant Sciences building bids came in nicely within budget estimates. Recent land sales (Havelock area) have gone well. Swine facilities plans are proceeding toward bidding for construction at the Field Laboratory. The East Campus Union Building continues well on schedule. The Greenhouse complex construction is well under way. Facilities projects in general are going well.
4. Dr. Charles Gardner is serving on a Plant Genetics Board along with eleven other nationally distinguished plant scientists appointed by Secretary Butz.
5. Statistical Laboratory card sorter, keypunches, computer terminal and electronic calculators are available for student and staff use 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday-Saturday, 7:00 to 11:00 p.m. Monday-Friday, and 1:00-5:00 p.m. Sunday.
