ABOUT THE AUTHORS

LARRY ANDREWS is Dean Emeritus of the Honors College and Professor Emeritus of English at Kent State University. His Rutgers PhD in comparative literature led to a 41-year academic career that included teaching in Poland and the USSR. He has published on Russian, French, and African American literature as well as on honors history and fundraising.

ANNMARIE GUZY is Associate Professor of English at the University of South Alabama, and she holds a PhD in rhetoric and professional communication from New Mexico State University. She currently serves on the NCHC Teaching and Learning Committee and the editorial boards for Honors in Practice and First-Year Honors Composition, and she is the author of the NCHC monograph Honors Composition: Historical Perspectives and Contemporary Practices.

KENDALL J. ESKINE is Assessment Specialist and Internal Evaluator at Xavier University of Louisiana. He holds a PhD in cognition, brain, and behavior and investigates human judgment and decision-making processes across a variety of contexts, ranging from public health to aesthetic appreciation.

AMARIS KETCHAM is an assistant professor at the University of New Mexico Honors College. Her teaching interests include creative writing, fine arts, graphic design, and print and digital production. She currently serves as Faculty Advisor for Scribendi, the Western Regional Honors Council’s literature and arts magazine.

NAOMI YAVNEH KLOS is Director of the University Honors Program at Loyola University New Orleans. A member of the NCHC Board of Directors and chair of the Association of Jesuit Colleges and Universities Honors Consortium, Naomi’s research interests include gender and spirituality in Early Modern Italy as well as Ignatian values and pedagogy in honors.

JOE KRAUS is Professor of English at the University of Scranton, where he also directs the honors program. He specializes in twentieth- and twenty-first-century American literature and is the president of the Society for the Study of the Multi-Ethnic Literature of the United States (MELUS). His creative work has appeared, among other places, in The American Scholar, Riverteeth, and Moment.
ANDREW MARTINO is Professor of English and Director of the Southern New Hampshire University Honors Program. He has published on V.S. Naipaul, Italo Calvino, Paul Bowles, Roberto Bolaño, and others. He currently serves as President-Elect and Conference Chair for the Northeast Regional Honors Council.

FRANCES MCCUE is Senior Lecturer in the University of Washington’s English Department and the Writer in Residence in the University Honors Program where she was the 2013 “Teacher of Distinction.” McCue was the founding director of Richard Hugo House in Seattle and is the author of four books.

BARBRA NIGHTINGALE is a senior English professor at Broward College in Ft. Lauderdale, and she is a current member of the NCHC Board of Directors. Her doctorate in higher education is from Florida International University. She has been Honors Coordinator on south campus since 1994 and is a two-time recipient of an endowed teaching chair. She is also an award-winning poet, with eight books of poetry published with various small presses.

MICHAEL PASHKEVICH is an Ignatian Scholar and member of the Loyola University New Orleans University Honors Program. He was a participant in the inaugural Honors Ignatian Colloquium in fall 2013. His research interests include tropical spider species and informal biology education techniques.

ANGELA MARIE SALAS is Professor of English at Indiana University Southeast, where she is Director of the Honors Program and Assistant Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs. Author of the first book-length consideration of poet Yusef Komunyakka, her research interests include best practices to nurture student persistence and success as well as the role of honors in the academic community.

SAMUEL H. SHEARER is an accounting student at Eastern Kentucky University. He completed the requirements of the EKU Honors Program in December 2013 and will graduate in May of 2015. He plans to pursue his Certified Public Accountant license upon completion of his degree.
ABOUT THE NCHC MONOGRAPH SERIES

The Publications Board of the National Collegiate Honors Council typically publishes two to three monographs a year. The subject matter and style range widely: from handbooks on nuts-and-bolts practices and discussions of honors pedagogy to anthologies on diverse topics addressing honors education and issues relevant to higher education.

The Publications Board encourages people with expertise interested in writing such a monograph to submit a prospectus. Prospective authors or editors of an anthology should submit a proposal discussing the purpose or scope of the manuscript; a prospectus that includes a chapter by chapter summary; a brief writing sample, preferably a draft of the introduction or an early chapter; and a curriculum vitae. All monograph proposals will be reviewed by the NCHC Publications Board.

Direct all proposals, manuscripts, and inquiries about submitting a proposal to the General Editor of the Monograph Series:

Assessing and Evaluating Honors Programs and Honors Colleges: A Practical Handbook by Rosalie Otero and Robert Spurrier (2005, 98pp). This monograph includes an overview of assessment and evaluation practices and strategies. It explores the process for conducting self-studies and discusses the differences between using consultants and external reviewers. It provides a guide to conducting external reviews along with information about how to become an NCHC-Recommended Site Visitor. A dozen appendices provide examples of “best practices.”

A Handbook for Honors Programs at Two-Year Colleges by Theresa James (2006, 136pp). A useful handbook for two-year schools contemplating beginning or redesigning their honors program and for four-year schools doing likewise or wanting to increase awareness about two-year programs and articulation agreements. Contains extensive appendices about honors contracts and a comprehensive bibliography on honors education.

The Honors College Phenomenon edited by Peter C. Sederberg (2008, 172pp). This monograph examines the growth of honors colleges since 1990: historical and descriptive characterizations of the trend, alternative models that include determining whether becoming a college is appropriate, and stories of creation and recreation. Leaders whose institutions are contemplating or taking this step as well as those directing established colleges should find these essays valuable.

Honors Composition: Historical Perspectives and Contemporary Practices by Annmarie Guzy (2003, 182pp). Parallel historical developments in honors and composition studies; contemporary honors writing projects ranging from admission essays to theses as reported by over 300 NCHC members.

Honors Programs at Smaller Colleges by Samuel Schuman (Third Edition, 2011, 80pp). Practical and comprehensive advice on creating and managing honors programs with particular emphasis on colleges with fewer than 4,000 students.

The Honors Thesis: A Handbook for Honors Directors, Deans, and Faculty Advisors by Mark Anderson, Karen Lyons, and Norman Weiner (2014, 176pp). To all those who design, administer, and implement an honors thesis program, this handbook offers a range of options, models, best practices, and philosophies that illustrate how to evaluate an honors thesis program, solve pressing problems, select effective requirements and procedures, or introduce a new honors thesis program.

If Honors Students Were People: Holistic Honors Higher Education by Samuel Schuman (2013, 256pp). What if Honors students were people? What if they were not disembodied intellects but whole persons with physical bodies and questing spirits? Of course . . . they are. This monograph examines the spiritual yearnings of college students and the relationship between exercise and learning.

Inspiring Exemplary Teaching and Learning: Perspectives on Teaching Academically Talented College Students edited by Larry Clark and John Zubizarreta (2008, 216pp). This rich collection of essays offers valuable insights into innovative teaching and significant learning in the context of academically challenging classrooms and programs. The volume provides theoretical, descriptive, and practical resources, including models of effective instructional practices, examples of successful courses designed for enhanced learning, and a list of online links to teaching and learning centers and educational databases worldwide.
The Other Culture: Science and Mathematics Education in Honors edited by Ellen B. Buckner and Keith Garbutt (2012, 296pp). A collection of essays about teaching science and math in an honors context: topics include science in society, strategies for science and non-science majors, the threat of pseudoscience, chemistry, interdisciplinary science, scientific literacy, philosophy of science, thesis development, calculus, and statistics.

Partners in the Parks: Field Guide to an Experiential Program in the National Parks by Joan Digby with reflective essays on theory and practice by student and faculty participants and National Park Service personnel (2010, 272pp). This monograph explores an experiential-learning program that fosters immersion in and stewardship of the national parks. The topics include program designs, group dynamics, philosophical and political issues, photography, wilderness exploration, and assessment.

Place as Text: Approaches to Active Learning edited by Bernice Braid and Ada Long (Second Edition, 2010, 128pp). Updated theory, information, and advice on experiential pedagogies developed within NCHC during the past 35 years, including Honors Semesters and City as Text™, along with suggested adaptations to multiple educational contexts.

Preparing Tomorrow’s Global Leaders: Honors International Education edited by Mary Kay Mulvaney and Kim Klein (2013, 400pp). A valuable resource for initiating or expanding honors study abroad programs, these essays examine theoretical issues, curricular and faculty development, assessment, funding, and security. The monograph also provides models of successful programs that incorporate high-impact educational practices, including City as Text™ pedagogy, service learning, and undergraduate research.

Setting the Table for Diversity edited by Lisa L. Coleman and Jonathan D. Kotinek (2010, 288pp). This collection of essays provides definitions of diversity in honors, explores the challenges and opportunities diversity brings to honors education, and depicts the transformative nature of diversity when coupled with equity and inclusion. These essays discuss African American, Latina/o, international, and first-generation students as well as students with disabilities. Other issues include experiential and service learning, the politics of diversity, and the psychological resistance to it. Appendices relating to NCHC member institutions contain diversity statements and a structural diversity survey.

Shatter the Glassy Stare: Implementing Experiential Learning in Higher Education edited by Peter A. Machonis (2008, 160pp). A companion piece to Place as Text, focusing on recent, innovative applications of City as Text™ teaching strategies. Chapters on campus as text, local neighborhoods, study abroad, science courses, writing exercises, and philosophical considerations, with practical materials for instituting this pedagogy.

Teaching and Learning in Honors edited by Cheryl L. Fuiks and Larry Clark (2000, 128pp). Presents a variety of perspectives on teaching and learning useful to anyone developing new or renovating established honors curricula.

Writing on Your Feet: Reflective Practices in City as Text™ edited by Ada Long (2014, 160pp). A sequel to the NCHC monographs Place as Text: Approaches to Active Learning and Shatter the Glassy Stare: Implementing Experiential Learning in Higher Education, this volume explores the role of reflective writing in the process of active learning while also paying homage to the City as Text™ approach to experiential education that has been pioneered by Bernice Braid and sponsored by NCHC during the past four decades.

Journal of the National Collegiate Honors Council (JNCHC) is a semi-annual periodical featuring scholarly articles on honors education. Articles may include analyses of trends in teaching methodology, articles on interdisciplinary efforts, discussions of problems common to honors programs, items on the national higher education agenda, and presentations of emergent issues relevant to honors education.

Honors in Practice (HIP) is an annual journal that accommodates the need and desire for articles about nuts-and-bolts practices by featuring practical and descriptive essays on topics such as successful honors courses, suggestions for out-of-class experiences, administrative issues, and other topics of interest to honors administrators, faculty, and students.
