2002

Notes on Contributors 2002

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.unl.edu/ger
Part of the Comparative Literature Commons, Literature in English, British Isles Commons, and the Women's Studies Commons

http://digitalcommons.unl.edu/ger/439

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the English, Department of at DigitalCommons@University of Nebraska - Lincoln. It has been accepted for inclusion in The George Eliot Review by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@University of Nebraska - Lincoln.
NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

Lynda Carnes is Chairman of the Bedworth Society.

Mary Wilson Carpenter is Associate Professor of English at Queen’s University, Kingston, Ontario, and has published widely on Victorian literature, including George Eliot and the Landscape of Time (1986).

Stephen Gill is Professor of English Literature at Oxford University. His publications include Wordsworth and the Victorians (1998) and the Penguin Classics edition of Adam Bede.

Beryl Gray teaches for the Faculty of Continuing Education at Birkbeck College and is Co-editor of the Review. She is the author of George Eliot and Music (1989), and has edited several of George Eliot’s works, including The Mill on the Floss (1996). She is currently working on a project on Victorians and dogs.

Barbara Hardy is Emeritus Professor of English, University of London, and her influential work on George Eliot, beginning with The Novels of George Eliot (1959) has been instrumental in establishing the modern reputation of the novelist. In recent years she has published a memoir, Swansea Girl (1994), a novel, London Lovers (both Peter Owen), and a volume of poems, Severn Bridge: New and Selected Poems (Shoestring). She has also published critical studies of Shakespeare, Jane Austen, Thackeray, Dickens, Hardy, Henry James, and Dylan Thomas.

Margaret Harris is Professor of English at the University of Sydney. She has edited, with Judith Johnston, The Journals of George Eliot (1998) and the Everyman Paperback Middlemarch (1997), and is a major contributor to the Oxford Reader’s Companion to George Eliot (2000).

Ruth Harris is a life member of the George Eliot Fellowship who has taught English at Finham Park Comprehensive School in Coventry and for the WEA. A regular contributor to the George Eliot Review, she has also contributed to the Oxford Reader’s Companion to George Eliot (2000).

David McIntosh is a life member of the George Eliot Fellowship and a painter and decorator in Aberdeen.

Rosalind Miles is a writer and broadcaster and the author of twenty-one works of fiction and non-fiction, including The Female Form: Women Writers and the Conquest of the Novel (1987).
Leonee Ormond is Professor of Victorian Studies at King’s College, London, and has published widely on Victorian and Edwardian literature and fine art, with books on George du Maurier, J. M. Barrie and Tennyson. She is the author, with Richard Ormond, of a critical biography of Frederic, Lord Leighton.

Canon Edward Pogmore is Chaplain to the George Eliot Hospital, Nuneaton.

Christine Richards has retired from her post as Senior Lecturer in English in the School of Literary and Media Studies at the University of North London.

Jane Thomas lectures in English at Hull University. She has published on the novels of Thomas Hardy, and on work by contemporary women writers, including Carol Ann Duffy, Michele Roberts, and Caryl Churchill. She is currently writing a book on Victorian women novelists.

Mark Turner teaches English at King’s College, London. He is the author of Trollope and the Magazines (1999) and co-editor of From Author to Text: Re-Reading George Eliot’s Romola (1998). He also co-edits the interdisciplinary journal Media History.

Daniel Tyler is a student at Pembroke College, Oxford.

A. G. van den Broek is Deputy Headmaster of Forest School, London. He has published a number of articles on George Eliot and is the editor of the Everyman paperback Felix Holt, the Radical (1997).

Terence R. Wright is Professor of English Literature at the University of Newcastle. He has published widely on the Victorian period, including The Religion of Humanity (1986) and George Eliot’s Middlemarch (1991).