

1968

Editors' Page

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.unl.edu/nlr>

Recommended Citation

, Editors' Page, 47 Neb. L. Rev. 2 (1968)

Available at: <https://digitalcommons.unl.edu/nlr/vol47/iss1/2>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Law, College of at DigitalCommons@University of Nebraska - Lincoln. It has been accepted for inclusion in Nebraska Law Review by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@University of Nebraska - Lincoln.

EDITORS' PAGE

The leading articles in this issue are in line with the Review policy of attempting to maintain a balance of material which is interesting and useful to the Nebraska practitioner and that which will command recognition on the national level. We believe the articles presented here meet this objective.

Professor Richard F. Broude of the University of Nebraska College of Law presents an in-depth analysis of the Tony De Angelis scandal and related problems of field warehouse litigation. Mr. Michael Conant, Professor of Business Law at the University of California, Berkeley, adds a survey of the liability of principals for the torts of agents to his long and impressive list of publications. Mr. Conant adds a criticism of the approach taken by the Restatement to his "nutshell" survey. Mr. Charles W. Tenney, Jr., Chief Attorney of the Pine Tree Legal Services, Inc., Portland, Maine, suggests one possible method of dealing with juvenile crimes that could hopefully reduce the rate of recidivism. Finally, Mr. Mark F. Anderson, a 1967 graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Law, concludes that federal antitrust statutes should be applied to professional sports associations.

In order for the Review to offer material of interest to the Nebraska attorney, it is essential that we know what problems you are confronted with "out in the real world." Thus, we solicit your contributions, either in the form of publishable articles or topics suggested for leading articles or student articles. Your cooperation is sincerely appreciated.

THE EDITORS