Research and Innovation

At the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, research and innovation drive discoveries, scholarship and creative activity that expand basic knowledge and solve real-world problems. Our growing research enterprise helps fuel economic development for Nebraska and addresses major challenges facing our state, our nation and the world.

Office of Research

<http://research.unl.edu/>

The Office of Research and Economic Development promotes and facilitates UNL's research enterprise, strategic partnerships and technology development efforts. Total external funding for research has increased by 110 percent since 2001.

NUtech Ventures

<http://www.nutechventures.org/>

NUtech Ventures is a nonprofit affiliate of the University of Nebraska established to commercialize technologies by forming innovative R&D partnerships between university researchers and the private sector. NUtech measures its success by the number of companies, products and jobs created by University of Nebraska research.

Nebraska Innovation Campus

<http://innovate.unl.edu/>

Nebraska Innovation Campus is a 249-acre public/private research and technology center adjacent to UNL's City Campus. This long-term project has the potential to become a center of innovation and economic development for the state and the university.
