Elizabeth, who is from Lincoln, NE, graduated from UN-L this past spring with a B.S. in Biological Sciences.

Sophie Rochefort, a Ph.D. student from Laval University, Québec, Canada, is visiting Dr. Fred Baxendale's laboratory from September through mid-November. Sophie will be spending time in the field and laboratory learning new research techniques and methodologies related to turfgrass entomology in Nebraska. She will also continue her research on identifying and characterizing the Collembolla and ground beetles associated with turfgrasses in Canada. In return, Sophie will share her knowledge of turfgrass endophytes and their detection with students and other interested individuals.
