Summary:

This is a form containing typewritten data listing significant documents related to the status of the US Army Medical Intelligence and Information Agency (MIIA).

The form shows that MIIA had been organized effective 1 April 1973 under the command of The Surgeon General, US Army. Periodic entries show changes in the authorized strength of the agency. On 1 December 1978, MIIA was relocated to Fort Detrick, MD. On 7 September 1983, the agency was renamed the Armed Forces Medical Intelligence Center. The last entry on this card was dated 21 September 1984.

The Medical Intelligence and Information Agency described on this card is a newly organized agency, not to be confused with the Medical Information and Intelligence Agency organized in 1956. Although the names were different, the initials of both agencies was MIIA.
