Letters Please!

We welcome the fourth volume of the Journal of Women in Educational Leadership. During the inaugural years of the journal, we have witnessed the increasing number of manuscript submissions and have appreciated the level of scholarship reflected in the submitted manuscripts. We have added new features to the journal such as Voices of Women in the Field, Women in History, and First Things First. In our national travels, we are continually approached by individuals who want to discuss the journal. We are pleased with the number of individuals who have read the journal, are subscribing to it, or are considering submitting their manuscripts for review. News of the journal is spreading!

If you would like to comment on any of the manuscripts that appear in the journal, we would welcome your letters in a new Letters to the Editor column we will feature in subsequent issues. We welcome your comments and appreciate your support of the Journal of Women in Educational Leadership!

Proposals for presentations at the 20th Annual Women in Educational Leadership Conference are being accepted! The conference will be October 8-9, 2006, in Lincoln, Nebraska. For information about the conference or proposal guidelines contact Marilyn Grady at mgradyl@unl.edu
