NOTES & NEWS

CENTER FOUNDS NEW JOURNAL

The Center for Great Plains Studies has established a new journal, Great Plains Research, edited by Paul A. Kay. Like Great Plains Quarterly, Great Plains Research is a scholarly, interdisciplinary journal that focuses on the North American Great Plains, but it will emphasize scientific and quantitative methodologies. Interested scholars in the fields of agriculture, biology, climatology and meteorology, earth sciences, environment and ecology, anthropology, quantitative history, economics, geography, political science, sociology, and other sciences are invited to submit papers for review by this journal. All interested persons are invited to subscribe. Individual rates are $25.00 per year in the U.S. and $28.00 in Canada. To submit papers, to subscribe, or for more information, please contact Paul A. Kay, Editor, Great Plains Research, 1215 Oldfather Hall, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Lincoln, NE 68588-0317, (402) 472-3082.

CENTER FOR GREAT PLAINS STUDIES SYMPOSIA

The title of the Center's sixteenth annual symposium, to be held in Lincoln 8-10 April 1992, is "Exploring the Great Plains: Continuing the Columbian Legacy." Interested scholars are invited to submit proposals for papers interpreting the idea of exploration in its widest sense. Please see the next issue of the Quarterly for a complete call for papers. Proposals (due 1 July 1991) and questions should be directed to Professor Gary E. Moulton, Center for Great Plains Studies, 1213 Oldfather Hall, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Lincoln, NE 68588-0314, (402) 472-3082.

The Center's fifteenth annual symposium, "Law, the Bill of Rights, and the Great Plains," will be held in Lincoln 6-9 March 1991. The program committee wishes to thank all scholars who submitted proposals. For program and registration information, please contact the Center for Great Plains Studies, 1213 Oldfather Hall, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Lincoln, NE 68588-0314, (402) 472-3082.

FRIENDS ACROSS THE FORTY-NINTH

The Center for Great Plains Studies of the University of Nebraska and the Canadian Plains Research Center at the University of Regina have signed an agreement to exchange faculty and students and to undertake joint research and publications projects. For more information, please contact Professor John R. Wunder at the Center for Great Plains Studies (402) 472-3082 or Professor James McCrorie at the Canadian Plains Research Center (306) 585-4758.
