

2015

16.2 Contributors

Follow this and additional works at: <http://digitalcommons.unl.edu/nhcjournal>

"16.2 Contributors" (2015). Journal of the National Collegiate Honors Council --Online Archive. 486.
<http://digitalcommons.unl.edu/nhcjournal/486>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the National Collegiate Honors Council at DigitalCommons@University of Nebraska - Lincoln. It has been accepted for inclusion in Journal of the National Collegiate Honors Council --Online Archive by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@University of Nebraska - Lincoln.

ABOUT THE CONTRIBUTORS

JONATHAN ALGER is President of James Madison University. An expert in higher education law and policy, he has previously served in positions at Rutgers, the University of Michigan, the American Association of University Professors, and U.S. Department of Education. He is a graduate of Swarthmore College and Harvard Law School.

J. DAVID ARMSTRONG, JR. brings more than twenty-five years of experience as a state and national leader in higher education and economic development to his presidency at Broward College. He leads one of the largest and most diverse colleges in America, enrolling nearly 60,000 students from more than 150 different nations of origin. Armstrong is a graduate of Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government Program for Senior Executives in State and Local Government. Previously he was Chancellor of the Florida Community College System.

RICHARD BADENHAUSEN is Professor and Kim T. Adamson Chair at Westminster College, where he is also Director of the Honors Program. The author of T. S. Eliot and the Art of Collaboration (Cambridge UP), Badenhausen is also Co-Chair of NCHC's Publications Board, an NCHC-Recommended Program Reviewer, and former member of NCHC's Board of Directors.

KAREN BAKER is Coordinator of the Orange Coast College Honors Program. A graduate in marine biology at San Diego State University, marine science professor Karen Baker has been honors coordinator since the fall of 2014. She is also the chair of the Department of Marine Science and advisor to the Eta Eta Omicron Marine Science Honor Society.

MARK P. BECKER became Georgia State University's seventh president in January of 2009. He has devoted his tenure to providing a vision for the future of the university and leading the institution into a period of marked growth and advancement. Reflecting his vision for an urban research university in the twenty-first century, GSU has adopted a dynamic ten-year strategic plan that puts it well on its way to becoming one of the nation's premier urban research universities.

MICHAEL T. BENSON, D.Phil., is President and Professor of Government at Eastern Kentucky University. Previously, he was President of Southern Utah University, whose honors program was instrumental in launching the NCHC's Partners in the Parks initiative. He now heads an institution that for twenty-three years has led the nation in student presentations at the NCHC's annual conference. He accompanied a contingent of forty ECU honors students who made presentations at the 2014 NCHC annual meeting and plans to attend the 2015 meeting.

LARRY BERMAN assumed the position Founding Dean of the Honors College at Georgia State University in January of 2012. He has been a Guggenheim, American Council of Learned Societies, and Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars Fellow. In 2010 he received the UC Davis Chancellor's Award for Excellence in Mentoring Undergraduate Research.

SUKETU P. BHAVSAR has been Director of the Kellogg Honors College at Cal Poly Pomona since 2007 and was formerly Director of the Honors Program at the University of Kentucky. After graduating from IIT Bombay, he received his PhD in astrophysics from Princeton University. His research contributions have been in cosmology and quantifying the large-scale structure in the universe. He is a professional member of the NCHC Board of Directors.

KENNETH P. BLEMINGS is Dean of the West Virginia University Honors College. He is a long-time professor of nutritional biochemistry in WVU's Davis College of Agriculture, Natural Resources and Design. In 2013, Blemings became the founding director of WVU's intercollegiate undergraduate program in biochemistry.

RON BORMANS is President of Rotterdam University of Applied Sciences (Hogeschool Rotterdam). He is a graduate in political science (KU Nijmegen) with a specialization in management science. Bormans worked for the Dutch Ministry of Education, Culture & Science as Deputy Director for Higher Professional Education and Director of Study Finance. He was a member of the so-called Veerman Committee, which advised the Dutch Government how to organize Dutch higher education.

QUINTIN B. BULLOCK is the ninth president of the Community College of Allegheny County, a diverse, multi-campus community college in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He is a consummate professional, an experienced educator, an exemplary community leader, a mentor, and a positive role model for students and aspiring leaders, with an extensive, diverse professional background in higher education. He is a proven and results-oriented president recognized as an ambassador for the faculty, staff, students, and communities he serves.

SEAN BURRAGE is President of Southeastern Oklahoma State University. He earned his Juris Doctorate from the University of Oklahoma College of Law and holds a bachelor's degree in accounting from OU. He is a member of the Governor's Education Advisory Committee and The Choctaw Nation of Oklahoma. He served two terms in the Oklahoma Senate.

JEFF CHAMBERLAIN has been Director of the Frederik Meijer Honors College at Grand Valley State University since 2007. Under his direction the program has grown significantly. Prior to his tenure at Grand Valley, he was a faculty member at the University of St. Francis (IL), where he founded the Duns Scotus Fellows and Scholars Program. He is a professor of history and has written a couple of books and numerous articles on eighteenth-century British religion and history. He was president of the Mid-East Honors Association from 2012–2015.

DAVID L. CHICOINE has served since January 2007 as the nineteenth president of South Dakota State University, his undergraduate alma mater. As a policy economist, he has contributed as a co-author or co-editor of four books and has published more than a hundred academic journal articles, book chapters, and professional papers. Chicoine previously served the University of Illinois for more than thirty years as a professor, department head, dean, and vice president.

JAMES P. CLARKE is Director of the Honors College at LIU Brooklyn. He also teaches philosophy and has published articles on the work of Hannah Arendt and Jean-François Lyotard. His interests include political theory, ethics, and contemporary French and German philosophy. He earned his BA from Sonoma State University in California and his MA and PhD in philosophy from Stony Brook University in New York.

KIMBERLY R. CLINE is the tenth president of Long Island University. Cline is recognized as a transformational leader and has positioned LIU's strength in engaged learning, combining rigorous academic instruction with real-world training and entrepreneurship. She holds an MBA, a JD, and an EdD.

CRAIG T. COBANE, PhD, is Executive Director of the Western Kentucky University Honors College and currently holds the John and Jacque Jarve Endowed Professorship in Honors. He was appointed Chief International Officer—Global Learning (CIO-GL) in 2012 and is the Principle Investigator for the National Security Education Program (NSEP) grant that funds the Chinese Flagship Program.

DAVID COLEMAN is Interim Director of the Eastern Kentucky University Honors Program. Professor of History and former Chair of the EKU History Department, he has taught with the EKU Honors Program since 1999. He is currently working with students, faculty, and administrators to help shape the EKU Honors Program's planned transition to honors college status in 2016.

LISA L. COLEMAN is Director of the Honors Program and Professor of English at Southeastern Oklahoma State University. A former member of the NCHC Board of Directors, she co-chairs the Committee on Diversity Issues, serves on the Publications Board, and is co-editor of two NCHC monographs, Setting the Table for Diversity (2010) and Occupy Honors Education (2016).

SORAYA M. COLEY, PhD, is the sixth president of Cal Poly Pomona. With over twenty-five years of academic and administrative experience, Coley has also served as a professor, dean, provost, and vice president in the California State University system. Her life's work is dedicated to providing access and opportunity to students from all backgrounds, including those who are least likely to afford what is possible.

JERRY CORCORAN has held ten job titles, including "President," in his twenty-five years at Illinois Valley Community College (IVCC). His EdD from Northern Illinois University is in curriculum and instruction. Under his leadership, IVCC has seen many ambitious capital improvements, including this year a student center and cyber café. The IVCC Foundation recently raised $2.1 million in support of its first capital campaign, and now the goal is to dramatically build the scholarship endowment.

ALBERT CORNELISSEN is President of the Board of Windesheim, University of Applied Sciences in the Netherlands, located in Zwolle and Almere. He has a master's in biology and PhD in parasitology. He was a researcher at the University of Edinburgh, the Netherlands Cancer Institute, and, as group-leader, at the Max-Planck-Institute for Biology. In 1991, he was appointed as a full professor in parasitology by Utrecht University. He became Dean of the Faculty of Veterinary Medicine in 1999 and fulfilled this position until 2009, when he became President.

MICHAEL K. CUNDALL, JR., has been Director of the University Honors Program at North Carolina A&T State University since 2011. A veteran of honors education, he has worked in honors programs and colleges since 2004. A philosophy professor by background, Cundall—or Dr. Mike to his students—focuses on student success and growth as the hallmarks of a successful education program.

JOAN DIGBY is Director of the Honors College at LIU Post as well as Professor of English and Director of the Poetry Center on her campus. She is a past president of the National Collegiate Honors Council who serves on the Publications Board and is a reviewer for JNCHC. The initiator of Partners in the Parks, she was also the editor of the NCHC monograph on this hallmark program.

ELIZABETH A. DINNDORF is President of Columbia College in Columbia, SC, a women's liberal-arts college with an emphasis on real-world experiences and career preparation. She is a graduate of the College of Saint Benedict, where she served as Chair of the Board, and William Mitchell College of Law. She was also Senior Vice President of U.S. Bank and Wells Fargo Bank.

TASHNI-ANN DUBROY is the seventeenth president of Shaw University and the youngest woman to lead the first HBCU in the South. A proud alumna who received a BS in chemistry from Shaw University, she previously served as the university's special assistant to the president for process optimization, chair of the natural sciences and mathematics department, and associate professor. A successful entrepreneur, Dubroy has also earned an MBA from Rutgers University and a PhD from North Carolina State University.

JOSEPHINE WOLTMAN ELPERS has been Dean of the Windesheim Honours College at Windesheim University of Applied Sciences in the Netherlands since 2013. She is also Director of the Honours Programs & Tracks, top Bachelor Programs, the MBA, internationalization, and Entrepreneurs in Residence. She was formerly head of the Center of Excellence Market Intelligence at 3M Germany. She has a master's in business economics and PhD in marketing & advertising research.

BARRY FALK is Dean of the Honors College at Virginia Commonwealth University, a position he began after seven years as Director of the Honors Program at James Madison University. He has been active in the leadership of the National Collegiate Honors Council, currently serving as president. He is also a member of the Finance Committee and Board of Directors.

JULIA FENNELL is Honors Director and Professor of English at the Community College of Allegheny County. She has been active in the NCHC and NRHC since 2002, completing several NCHC Faculty Institutes and serving as NRHC President in 2010. She is currently a member of the NCHC Two-Year College Committee.

PAUL W. FERGUSON, the fifteenth president of Ball State University, has initiated a new and refreshed vision for Ball State as well as a refocused strategic plan in preparation for the institution's hundredth anniversary, The Centennial Commitment (18 by '18), promoting student-centeredness and community engagement as a model twenty-first-century public research university.

JIM FORD is founding Director of Rogers State University's Honors Program and, as Director of Academic Enrichment, now oversees RSU's leadership and international programs as well. He loves honors in general and NCHC in particular. He serves as Co-Chair of the Assessment & Evaluation and Teaching & Learning Committees.

MARGARET FRANSON is Associate Dean of Christ College, the honors college of Valparaiso University and home of the Lilly Postdoctoral Fellows Teaching Program in Humanities and the Arts. She has been active in NCHC since 1998 and has written and presented on honors education in a variety of forums.

E. GORDON GEE is President of West Virginia University. Having helmed universities for more than three decades, Gee was named one of the top ten university presidents in the United States by Time Magazine in 2009. In addition to WVU, he has led the University of Colorado, Brown University, Vanderbilt University, and Ohio State University.

RAYMOND J. GREEN is founding Dean of the Honors College at Texas A&M University – Commerce. Before starting the honors college in 2007, he taught psychology at A&M – Commerce and Indiana University of Pennsylvania. He earned his PhD in social psychology at Rutgers University and his BA from Drew University.

GEORGE L. HANBURY II is President and CEO of Nova Southeastern University and is Professor for the H. Wayne Huizenga College of Business and Entrepreneurship. Prior to his appointment as president, Hanbury served for twelve years as Executive Vice President for Administration following an illustrious career as the CEO of multiple major cities throughout the nation. He has degrees from Florida Atlantic University, Old Dominion University, and Virginia Tech.

THOMAS J. HAAS is President of Grand Valley State University. He is an internationally recognized expert in hazardous material transportation, strategic planning, and higher education leadership. He is a retired captain after twenty-three years of commissioned service in the U.S. Coast Guard, and he is a member of the Athletic Hall of Fame and a distinguished graduate from his alma mater. He has degrees from the U.S. Coast Guard Academy, the University of Michigan, Rensselaer Institute of Technology (New York), and the University of Connecticut.

DENNIS R. HARKINS is President of Orange Coast College in Costa Mesa, California. He serves on the ACE Commission for Internationalization and Global Engagement and the AACC Council for Global Education. He holds honorary titles from the Nanjing Institute of Visual Arts and Shandong University of Art along with a PhD in education from Georgia State University and an MA in international affairs and a BFA from Ohio University.

MARK A. HECKLER, PhD, has served as Valparaiso University's eighteenth president since 2008. He previously served as Provost and Vice Chancellor of Academic and Student Affairs at the University of Colorado Denver. Heckler holds a PhD in educational leadership and innovation from the School of Education and Human Development at the University of Colorado, an MFA from Catholic University in Washington, D.C., and a BA from Elizabethtown College in Pennsylvania.

JAMES HERBERT served at the College Board as Director of Academic Relations and then Executive Director of Academic Affairs (1982–1989). He served at the National Endowment for the Humanities as Director of Education Programs and then Director of Research Programs (1989–2003). His subsequent work experience was with the National Science Foundation, the European Science Foundation, the Arts and Humanities Research Council (UK), and the University of Cambridge.

JERRY HERRON is Professor of English and Founding Dean of the Irvin D. Reid Honors College at Wayne State University. His publications include two books, Universities and the Myth of Cultural Decline and AfterCulture: Detroit and the Humiliation of History. His essays and critical writings have appeared in South Atlantic Quarterly, Raritan, Social Text, Representations, Georgia Review, and Antioch Review as well as the online journal Places. He is President-Elect of NCHC and a member of the Publications Board.

BONITA C. JACOBS has been President of the University of North Georgia since 2011. She is the university's first woman president and is only the second to lead one of the country's six Senior Military Colleges. A recipient of multiple awards for her leadership in higher education and student development, Jacobs is a frequent speaker on transfer and student success issues. She has degrees from Stephen F. Austin State University and Texas A&M.

STEPHEN J. JEROME joined Monroe College in 1966 as an instructor and held a succession of positions, becoming president in 1978. Among many other positions, he is President of the Association of Proprietary Colleges in New York State, and he is a former Commissioner of the Accrediting Commission of the Association of Independent Colleges and Schools. He received his baccalaureate degree from Pace University and his MS degree in higher education administration from Baruch College.

JAMES R. JOHNSEN is President of the University of Alaska. His most recent experience includes service as an executive with Alaska Communications and previously with Doyon, Limited. Johnsen also served the University of Alaska between 1996 and 2008 in several executive roles, including vice president of administration and chief of staff.

MARC A. JOHNSON was appointed sixteenth president of the University of Nevada, Reno in 2012. Prior to his appointment, Johnson served as the interim president and executive vice president and provost at the university starting in 2008. During his tenure, the university has reached record numbers in enrollment, graduation, and National Merit scholars.

DAN R. JONES is the eleventh president of Texas A&M University – Commerce and a tenured professor of English. Prior to joining A&M – Commerce in July 2008, he served as Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs at Texas A&M International University in Laredo, Texas, and as Dean of University College at the University of Houston-Downtown. He holds bachelor’s degrees in English and journalism from the University of Texas at Austin, a master’s in English from Rice University, and a master’s and PhD in American Studies from the University of Iowa.

SHEILA JONES, PhD, is District Director of the Robert “Bob” Elmore Honors College and Associate Professor of History at Broward College. She earned her BA in history and business administration from Washington & Jefferson College, graduating with Honors in History, and her MA and PhD in history from Bowling Green State University. She has served as President of the Florida Collegiate Honors Council and as an NCHC conference presenter.

PETER KANELOS is Dean of Christ College, the honors college of Valparaiso University. His scholarly interests center on dramatic literature and the performing arts, especially Shakespeare studies. Kanelos has been awarded several university-wide teaching awards and research fellowships from the National Endowment for the Humanities and the National Humanities Center. Prior to arriving at Valparaiso, he held appointments at Stanford University, the University of San Diego, and Loyola University Chicago, where he founded the Interdisciplinary Shakespeare Studies Program.

MARC KLINGSHIRN is Director of the Capital Scholars Honors Program and Associate Professor of Chemistry at the Springfield campus of the University of Illinois. He has taught consistently in the honors program for the past nine years. His research interests include chemical education, separation science, and materials science, with all of these areas linked together by an underlying emphasis on green chemistry. He earned his chemistry degrees from Ashland University (BS), the University of Tennessee Knoxville (MS), and the University of Alabama (PhD).

NAOMI YAVNEH KLOS is Director of the University Honors Program at Loyola University New Orleans. A member of the NCHC Board of Directors and chair of the Association of Jesuit Colleges and Universities Honors Consortium, her research interests include gender and spirituality in Early Modern Italy as well as Ignatian values and pedagogy in honors.

SUSAN J. KOCH is Chancellor of the Springfield campus of the University of Illinois. With her leadership, UIS has expanded academic offerings and enrollment, increasing campus visibility and impact across the Central Illinois region and beyond. A highly engaged campus and community leader, Koch also leads an advancement team that has achieved record fundraising goals. Koch holds academic degrees in education from Dakota State University and the University of Northern Iowa.

KARLYN KOH is Professor of English and Director of the Honors Program at the City University of New York's LaGuardia Community College. She has published in the fields of critical theory, post-colonial theory, Asian diasporic cultural studies, and post-modern poetry. She is a recipient of such awards as the NISTS 2014 Bonita C. Jacobs Transfer Champion Award and LaGuardia's Student Government Association's Professor of the Year Award (2011), and she is the current executive secretary of the NRHC.

JOHN KORSTAD has been Professor of Biology at Oral Roberts University since 1980 and Honors Program Director since its formation in 2001. He spent two sabbatical years (1993–1994) doing aquaculture research in Norway, supported by a Fulbright Fellowship. His current focus is on sustainability and developing biofuels from algae.

JOE LANE is Hawthorne Professor of Politics and founding Director of the College Honors Program at Emory & Henry College. He graduated from the honors program at Hampden-Sydney College and earned his PhD at Boston College. He has written widely on American constitutional law and politics, political philosophy, and environmental political thought.

KIM Q. B. LEATHERS has been Director of the Honors College at Shaw University since 2004 and is coach of the Honda Campus All-Star Challenge team. A sociologist by training, she emphasizes students as “renaissance” men and women, aware of their world and potential to be service-oriented, transformational leaders. She earned her BA, MA, and PhD in sociology from Howard University.

KATHRYN M. MACDONALD serves as Coordinator of the Monroe College Honors Program and is Professor in the Department of English. She earned her MA from Fordham University in mass media and communications. She is an active member of the Northeast Regional Honors Council, always encouraging students to take advantage of every opportunity honors offers.

HAROLD L. MARTIN, SR., is the twelfth chancellor/president of North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University. A graduate of NC A&T, he returned to teach at A&T in 2009 and rose to the rank of provost after a term as Chancellor of Winston-Salem State University and Vice President at the University of North Carolina System. Martin, whose PhD is in electrical engineering, has been a driving force in higher education in North Carolina since the 1980s.

GEOFFREY S. MEARNES has served as the fifth president of Northern Kentucky University since August 1, 2012. He received his undergraduate degree from Yale University and his law degree from the University of Virginia.

GAIL O. MELLOW is President of LaGuardia Community College in Queens, NY. An expert on the history, development, and future of the American community college, Mellow is co-author of Minding the Dream: The Process and Practice of the American Community College (Rowman & Littlefield, 2nd ed. 2014) and Taking College Teaching Seriously: Pedagogy Matters! (Stylus, 2015).

STEVE MORGAN is President of Westminster College. He is a CPA by background but has spent most of his professional career in higher education serving as Westminster's Chief Financial Officer and Vice President of Institutional Advancement. He has been active with many higher education associations and is involved with various local corporate and community boards.

JOHN MOURACADE is Associate Professor of Philosophy and Interim Dean of the University Honors College at the University of Alaska Anchorage. After earned his PhD at the University of Rochester in 2000, Mouracade held two academic posts before arriving at UAA in 2005. His area of specialty is ancient Greek philosophy.

SOL NEELY is Assistant Professor of English and Philosophy and Coordinator of the Honors Program at the University of Alaska Southeast. He earned his PhD in philosophy and literature at Purdue University. He is co-founder and president of the North American Levinas Society. He has developed a prison education program where honors students study collaboratively with inmates.

BRADLEY NEWCOMER is Professor of Physics and Director of the James Madison University Honors Program. Previous experience includes numerous honors positions at the University of Alabama at Birmingham (UAB), where he focused on integrating high-engagement practices into honors education. He is a graduate of Juniata College, Wright State University, and UAB.

TIMOTHY J. NICHOLS is Dean of the Van D. and Barbara Fishback Honors College and Professor of Sociology at South Dakota State University. In addition to honors teaching and administration, Nichols has collaborated with the region's tribal colleges and leads campus common reading and student leadership development initiatives.

JOSEPH E. NYRE serves as the eighth president of Iona College, a community of learners and scholars dedicated to academic excellence in the tradition of the Christian Brothers and American Catholic higher education. Nyre earned his PhD from the University of Kansas and completed pre- and post-doctoral fellowships in clinical child psychology at Harvard Medical School/Children's Hospital and the University of Kansas. Nyre has served as a practicing psychologist and has served on the faculty at the University of Chicago, Baylor University, and Harvard Medical School.

ADAM OLDAKER is Honors Program Director and English Instructor at Illinois Valley Community College (IVCC). Prior to joining the full-time faculty in 2010, he worked as a children's magazine editor at the Cricket Magazine Group and a middle-school language arts teacher at Spring Valley C. C. School District 99 (IL). He also has experience as Interim Dean of English, Mathematics, and Education at IVCC. He holds degrees from Purdue University, Lewis University, and Illinois Wesleyan University.

KIM PAFFENROTH is Professor of Religious Studies and Director of the Honors Program at Iona College. He has written extensively on Augustine, the Bible, and the interface between Christian belief and popular culture. In the last category, he produced Gospel of the Living Dead: George Romero's Visions of Hell on Earth (Baylor, 2006), which won the Bram Stoker Award and led him to write several popular zombie novels.

BAKER PATTILLO holds a BS and a MEd from Stephen F. Austin State University (SFASU) and a PhD from Texas A & M University. He is starting his fiftieth year at SFASU and his tenth year as president. He serves on the NCAA Division I Board of Directors and the NCAA Board of Governors.

GARY A. RANSELL, EdD, has served as President of Western Kentucky University since 1997. He is leading WKU through a complete transformation in enrollment and degree production, private support, campus construction, and comprehensive internationalization. He has two degrees from WKU and a doctorate in higher education administration from Indiana University.

MICHAEL RAO, PhD, has been president for Virginia Commonwealth University and the VCU Health System since 2009. His leadership has helped VCU become a top-50 public research university nationally and a top-200 research university internationally. Nearly thirty academic programs are ranked among the best in the nation, including two ranked Number One.

LARRY RICE, EdD, has served as President of Rogers State University since 2008, leading its three northeastern Oklahoma campuses and its online degree program. Rice has more than three decades of experience in higher education, both as a faculty member and administrator. He also served nine terms as a member of the Oklahoma House of Representatives, where he was recognized as a passionate supporter of education.

DON ROSENBLUM serves as dean of the recently established Farquhar Honors College at Nova Southeastern University. Previously, he served as Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences for eleven years, directed the NSU Honors Program since its inception, and has been involved with honors education for more than thirty-five years. He has degrees from Ohio State University and the University of Maryland.

JAMES S. RUEBEL has been Professor of Classical Studies and Dean of the Honors College at Ball State University since 2000. He has been officially involved in honors education for over thirty-five years and has served two terms on the National Collegiate Honors Council's Board of Directors; he was NCHC President in 2014.

JAKE B. SCHRUM has been a college president and leading proponent of liberal arts education for twenty-five years. He is President of Emory & Henry College in Virginia. He previously served as president of Southwestern University and Texas Wesleyan University. He has also been the international board chair for CASE.

STEPHEN SMITH has been a professor of psychology at the University of North Georgia since 1993 and Honors Program Director since 2001. A graduate of the University of Texas, he has published on a variety of topics in social psychology; his current research focus is on U.S. cadet experiences abroad as preparation for future deployment.

MARSHA SOUSA is Director of the Honors Program and Professor of Biology at the University of Alaska Fairbanks. She has taught a variety of biology, health, and honors courses; conducted research on the reproductive physiology of caribou and muskoxen; directed and developed allied health programs; and served in administrative roles within the University of Alaska system.

MICHAEL TKACIK has been Director of the School of Honors at Stephen F. Austin State University since 2008. He is Professor of Political Science and publishes regularly on international security issues.

TAMARA M. VALENTINE has been Director of the Honors Program at the University of Nevada, Reno since 2004. She earned her PhD in linguistics from the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign. A sociolinguist, Valentine has published articles and presented papers on topics related to English as an International Language, South Asian languages and linguistics, language and gender, and cross-cultural communication.

RON WEERHEIJM has an MA in architecture and was a practicing architect for twenty years while also teaching students in architecture and engineering. In 2009 he started honors programs in the department of engineering and became Dean of Honors at Rotterdam University of Applied Sciences in 2012. With his team he supports, encourages, and also teaches students and faculty in honors and promotes national and international networks.

KEVIN WM. WILDES, S.J., is President of Loyola University New Orleans. Fr. Wildes entered the Society of Jesus after graduating from St. Joseph's University. Holding advanced degrees in theology and philosophy, he received his PhD in bioethics from Rice University. In addition to publishing and teaching, his civic engagement includes service as founding chair of the New Orleans Ethics Review Board and chair of the Civil Service Commission.

M. ROY WILSON became the twelfth president of Wayne State University in August 2013. Prior to joining Wayne State, Wilson served as deputy director for strategic scientific planning and program coordination at the National Institute on Minority Health and Health Disparities of the National Institutes of Health. Wilson received his undergraduate degree from Allegheny College, an MS in epidemiology from UCLA, and an MD from Harvard Medical School.

WILLIAM M. WILSON is President of Oral Roberts University. He is recognized as a global influencer with unwavering ethics and strong business acumen who has a passion for building Spirit-empowered leaders to impact the world. He is a noted Bible teacher with a weekly television program. He has also fostered unique global partnerships through Empowered21.

BELLE ZEMBRODT is Interim Director of the Northern Kentucky University Honors Program. She has been involved in NCHC since 1995, participating in national conferences and various faculty institutes. Her current focus is developing the NKU Honors College.

JOHN ZUBIZARRETA is Professor of English and Director of Honors and Faculty Development at Columbia College. A Carnegie Foundation/CASE Professor of the Year, he is the author of The Learning Portfolio: Reflective Practice for Improving Student Learning, co-author of The Robert Frost Encyclopedia, and co-editor of Inspiring Exemplary Teaching and Learning: Perspectives on Teaching Academically Talented College Students. He is a past president of NCHC and SRHC, a three-time member of the Board of Directors, and an NCHC-Recommended Program Reviewer.

ABOUT THE NCHC MONOGRAPH SERIES

The Publications Board of the National Collegiate Honors Council typically publishes two to three monographs a year. The subject matter and style range widely: from handbooks on nuts-and-bolts practices and discussions of honors pedagogy to anthologies on diverse topics addressing honors education and issues relevant to higher education.

The Publications Board encourages people with expertise interested in writing such a monograph to submit a prospectus. Prospective authors or editors of an anthology should submit a proposal discussing the purpose or scope of the manuscript; a prospectus that includes a chapter by chapter summary; a brief writing sample, preferably a draft of the introduction or an early chapter; and a curriculum vitae. All monograph proposals will be reviewed by the NCHC Publications Board.

Direct all proposals, manuscripts, and inquiries about submitting a proposal to the General Editor of the Monograph Series:

Dr. Jeffrey A. Portnoy
General Editor, Monograph Series
Honors Program
Georgia Perimeter College
555 N. Indian Creek Drive
Clarkston, GA 30021-2396

jeffrey.portnoy@gpc.edu
(678) 891-3620