American Indian Resource Materials in the Western History Collections, University of Oklahoma. Edited by Donald L. DeWitt. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1990. Illustrations, index. xiii + 272 pp. $32.95.

The American Indian Resource Materials amount to about twenty percent of the Western History Collection at the University of Oklahoma. Among these materials are unpublished manuscripts, photographs, interviews, and sound recordings that cover a historical period from the early 1800s to 1980.

This bibliography should be of interest to medical, business, political, and religious historians of the Great Plains and Southwest as well as to ethnologists and anthropologists in general. Of special interest to this reviewer are photographs of American Indians of the 1800s and references to early American Indian music and musicians, writers, poets, and artists and their art.
