NOTES AND NEWS

FREDERICK C. LUEBKE AWARD

We are please to announce that the 2005 Frederick C. Luebke Award for outstanding regional scholarship has been awarded to Andrea G. Radke, of Brigham Young University–Idaho, for her essay, “Refining Rural Space: Women and Vernacular Gentility in the Great Plains, 1880-1920,” (Fall 2004, Vol. 24/No. 4: 227-48). The prize, named for the founder of the Quarterly, is given each year for the best article published in the Great Plains Quarterly. The Frederick C. Luebke Award includes a cash stipend of $250.00.

GREAT PLAINS SYMPOSIUM 2005

The 29th Annual Center for Great Plains Studies Symposium will be a joint conference with the Natural Areas Association. The topic this year is Changing Natural Landscapes: Ecological and Human Dimensions and the symposium will be held September 21-24, 2005, at the Cornhusker Hotel in Lincoln, Nebraska. This interdisciplinary conference will focus on both the ecological and human dimension of our changing natural areas. The keynote speaker will be Richard Manning, award-winning journalist, environmentalist, and author of Grassland: The History, Biology, Politics and Promise of the American Prairie. For additional information, please contact Dr. James Stubbendieck, Program Chair, 2005 Natural Areas Conference, Center for Great Plains Studies, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, PO Box 880214, Lincoln, NE 68588-0214.
