Anthropology Collection Development Policy

University Libraries, University of Nebraska-Lincoln

David C. Tyler, Anthropology Liaison Librarian, November 2009

Approved: CDC December 2, 2009

I. GENERAL ACADEMIC PROGRAM INFORMATION

The anthropology collection supports the teaching, research and service activities of the entire university community. Its primary audience is the faculty, staff, and students of the Department of Anthropology in the College of Arts and Sciences (note: prior to 2009, the department was part of the conjoined Department of Anthropology & Geography). Its primary focus is support for the undergraduate and graduate curricula for anthropology. Narrowly specific and transient research needs of anthropology faculty and graduate students are supplemented through Interlibrary Loan. Materials are not purchased for the general public, though the public may benefit from the collection. The collection focuses on works classified in Archaeology CC; Anthropology GN; and ethnographic works appearing in History D, E, and F. As the department itself notes, anthropology's specialty, more than any other discipline, is the study of human diversity across time and space, so the department's interests are very broad, and curriculum and research support may also be provided by works classified as belonging more properly to anatomy and physiology, anthropology of education, applied-development anthropology, area studies, art and art history, behavioral ecology, biological anthropology (note: formerly physical anthropology), classics, cross-cultural psychology, ethology, Great Plains studies, human ecology, landscape archaeology and land-use studies, medical anthropology, museum studies, Native American studies, paleontology, primatology, social history, technology (history and diffusion), urban studies/regional studies, and so forth.

For collection development decision-making purposes, of the several branches of and topics of interest to anthropology, those relating to general anthropology and methodology, archaeology, biological anthropology (i.e., physical anthropology), and social/cultural anthropology (including behavioral and human ecology) should be given stronger levels of support. Folkloristics and linguistics should be given lower levels of support unless otherwise indicated in the "Library Collections" section below or by the collection development policies for modern languages and for sociology (i.e., sociolinguistics).

Anthropology Department

As the department notes on its Web page, "Anthropology is a very broad discipline and anthropologists tend to be highly individualistic." The number of required core and recommended classes for the anthropology major, therefore, is fairly small, and students are somewhat at liberty to, with some guidance, create their own programs of study. However, within these very broad boundaries, the department does offer three tracks with their own lists of recommended courses: Cultural Anthropology, Physical Anthropology, and Archeology.

The department was established in 1953 and has grown steadily over the years to encompass most of the major fields and subfields of anthropology, with strengths in archaeology, behavioral ecology, Native American studies, and applied-development anthropology; the subfields of lesser interest for the department have been folkloristics and, especially, anthropological linguistics.

Between 2001 and 2009, the department was conjoined with the Geography Department, but the department has since moved to the School of Natural Resources.

As of the fall of 2009, the anthropology department was comprised of eleven tenured and tenure-track faculty and seven adjunct faculty. A review of the departmental faculty Web pages indicated that eleven faculty members listed some form of archaeology as their subfield of interest, five listed social/cultural anthropology, two listed applied-development anthropology, one listed anthropological linguistics, one listed classics, one listed medical/dental anthropology, one listed physical anthropology, and one listed primatology (note: several faculty list multiple subfield interests). On the department's Web page for prospective graduate students, seven faculty likewise listed historical archaeology as their specialty, seven faculty listed professional archaeology, four listed behavioral ecology, five listed Great Plains research, five listed biological anthropology, and two listed applied anthropology (note: several faculty listed multiple specialties). Four faculty members are cross-listed as members of the Institute for Ethnic Studies, and three are cross-listed as members of the Women's and Gender Studies Program. Additionally, of particular note for the department is an emerging area of departmental specialization in forensic archaeology: battlefield archaeology.

The department offers BA and BS degrees at the undergraduate level and a minor to students from other departments. At the graduate level, it offers an MA degree and a specialized masters program in Professional Archaeology.

In the fall of 2008, the department reported seventy-one undergraduate majors studying for a BA and four studying for a BS, and it reported twenty-three students studying for an MA. In the fall of 2009, the department again reported seventy-one undergraduate majors studying for a BA but reported twelve studying for the BS, and it again reported twenty-three students studying for an MA. Though the department may be one of the smaller on campus, its course offerings are very popular with students fulfilling their general education requirements: the conjoined anthropology and geography department reported 5,848 credit hours for the fall of 2008, of which 4,774 were offered at the 100- and 200-levels. In addition to its classroom offerings, the department offers field classes in archaeology and in ethnography most summers, and anthropology majors are very much encouraged to augment their classes with international and/or professional internships. At various times, the faculty may be involved in the "University Honors Program" UNL Program of Excellence.

The department offers the following Achievement-Centered Education (ACE) certified anthropology courses for general education:

ANTH 110 Introduction to Anthropology

ANTH 212 Introduction to Cultural Anthropology (ETHN 212)

ANTH 232 ANTH 232 Introduction to Prehistory

ANTH 242 Introduction to Physical Anthropology

ANTH 252 Archaeology of World Civilizations (CLAS 252)

ANTH 442/842 Human Variation

(Note: for anthropology majors, ANTH 110 is not required for the major and may not be counted toward the major requirement)

For additional information on the department, its activities and programs, and its history, please see the following: <http://www.unl.edu/anthro/>

Library Collections

To support the anthropology program, the library collection offers a wide range of materials on theory, methodology, technology and practices, ethnography, social history, social and economic development, public health, philosophy, art and art history, religious studies, literature, area studies, and so forth. To a lesser extent, the collection also provides information on careers.

Collections in some of these areas are guided by other collection development policies, including those written for History; Medieval and Renaissance Studies; Nineteenth Century Studies; Native American Studies; Architecture; Art and Art History; Medicine and Dentistry; Classics; Business; Economics; Political Science; Education; Law; Family Studies; and so forth.

II. GEOGRAPHICAL COVERAGE

With respect to archaeology, ethnography/ethnology, and biological anthropology, the UNL Libraries should, if funding allows, aspire to collect resources on the Great Plains at the Comprehensive Level, but should maintain a Research Level collection. Similarly, a Research Level/Study Level collection should be maintained for New World archaeology and ethnography/ethnology, with special attention being paid to North America and to Mesoamerica. Effort should be made to maintain Study Level/Basic Level collections for the circumpolar regions; South America; Eastern Europe and Russia; Western Europe; China, Japan, and Southeast Asia; South Asia; Central Asia; the non-Mediterranean Middle East; North Africa and the Mediterranean Basin; sub-Saharan Africa; and to Oceania, Australia, and New Zealand,

With respect to folklore and linguistics, the UNL Libraries should, if funding allows, generally collect at the Minimal Level. An exception may be made for materials of interest to Great Plains studies.

III. CHRONOLOGICAL COVERAGE

There are no chronological limitations. Studies pertaining to prehistoric man, diachronic analysis, contemporary societies, methods and techniques, and the historical development of anthropology as a distinct discipline are all of interest and should be collected in compliance with the collection intensity levels designated above.

IV. IMPRINT DATE

Primary emphasis should be on current imprints. Retrospective purchasing should be concentrated in those areas collected at the Comprehensive and Research Levels and should emphasize the completion of major sets, the acquisition of highly pertinent but not widely disseminated research reports, and/or the works of highly influential anthropologists and archaeologists. Retrospective purchasing for materials designated as being collected at the Study Level and below should be highly selective.

V. FORMAT

Print Materials

Most materials are acquired in the form of periodicals, serials, and monographs. Anthropological research is also heavily reliant on technical reports, occasional papers, and research reports released by universities, museums, and state and federal agencies, which form a significant portion of the field's output. Many of these items are published in paperback, and some are spiral bound. The collection should also include the proceedings and symposia of the major archaeological and anthropological associations, especially those reporting on Great Plains topics. Reference works dealing with the North American Indian and major reference works dealing with other areas of anthropology should be collected. Included in the latter are subject encyclopedias, anthropological and archaeological atlases, and abstracting and indexing services. Textbooks are not normally collected, unless they are of "classic" stature, are of graduate level, and/or have been requested by faculty. Non-UNL dissertations and theses on Great Plains Indians may be collected.

Non-Print Materials

With respect to periodicals/serials and to reference works, preference should be given to materials available online or in dual print/online format, especially if such materials are free of continuing "maintenance" fees and if such materials allow for simultaneous access.

With respect to indexes and databases, one should keep in mind that topics and treatments of interest to anthropology potentially could appear in almost any index, so anthropology is unlikely to be sufficiently served solely by its own indexes and databases. It would be worthwhile to canvas the faculty when making subscription changes to the reference products of most fields.

Microformats, especially microfiche, are occasionally collected. Examples of such collections are the Decisions of the Indians Claims Commission, the Duke Indian Oral History Collection, Dakota Conflict of 1862: Manuscript Collections, and so forth. However, if funding allows, preference should be given to affordable online versions of such collections, especially if they offer value-added features such as full-text searching.

VI. LANGUAGES

English is the preferred language at all levels of collection intensity. Works in other languages may be collected selectively. No work should automatically be excluded on the basis of language alone. English translations are preferred, but translations into any of the major European languages may also be acceptable.
