Putting your best foot forward is doing your very best by using your talents for peak performance and satisfaction. The most effective people are those who understand their talents. When you better understand your own unique talents and how to blend those in the workplace, you can begin to value the difference in others.

Breakout Group 2: 3:15 p.m. – 4:30 p.m.

Chris Timm

The days of hand delivering your resume and cover letter are disappearing. Whether applying for a different position in the same organization or considering a change, savvy jobseekers should know how to navigate online application systems and describe their skills in ways that help their application rise to the top. This session will describe the use of keywords in resumes and cover letters, characteristics of online application systems and job search sites.

Suzanne Drew

On a good day, with the right people, we can pretty much accomplish anything. But just as some days are better than others, some people are easier to work with and around than others. In this conversation, we will discuss possible explanations for why some people, sometimes, make it difficult for themselves and others to get done what needs to get done. . . and what we can do when we find ourselves in those situations.
