POD Quarterly is a publication of the Professional and Organizational Development (POD) Network in Higher Education. POD is an association of people bound together by an interest in improving higher education through faculty, instructional, and organizational development activities and programs. The Network was created in 1976 so that those who share common interests and concerns could exchange information, ideas, and resources; enhance professional skills; debate issues and strategies; and contemplate and plan for the future. The POD Quarterly is designed to further those aims through refereed articles about professional, organizational, and instructional development practice and research. It will also include such features as book reviews, news about the POD Network and its members, exchanges of suggestions and ideas, and news of interest to POD members about other educational associations.

Contributions to all departments are welcome. Acceptance or rejection will be based primarily on how well they address the needs of the audience of POD Quarterly.

Manuscripts must be legibly typewritten or reproduced from typewritten copy, double spaced with wide margins, and on one side of the paper. Three copies should be submitted to the current editor and one kept by the author as protection against loss. The author's professional title and/or professional affiliation, address, phone number, and a brief statement of professional interests/activities as they would relate to the audience of the POD Quarterly must appear at the end of the manuscript. Footnotes should be kept to a minimum. References should be collected at the end of the paper and referred to by number in the text. Please follow the format of articles in this issue.
