Abstract
Assisted suicide is when a physician helps a terminally ill patient die without pain. As of right now, it is illegal in most states. Organizations about this issue were organized in the late 1930's (Humphry). According to Pro-Con. Org, 79% of patients requested assisted suicide even before they came terminally ill – if it got to that point.

Key Points
Reasons why people dislike the idea:
● It is immoral
● Religious people believe it “plays the role of God”
● Time factor

Reasons people support the idea:
● Personal choice
● Degree of pain
● Loss of dignity

3/4 of people support this (Suicide Inquiry)

Conclusion & Discussion
Many states have different laws on assisted suicide. In no doubt, these patients go through a tremendous amount of pain and no one but themselves should decide when enough is enough. Technological advances have allowed this generation to help aid a person when dying - and painlessly. Why not let them choose what they want to do with their [dying] lives?
