POD NETWORK MENTORING PROGRAM

Suggested Activities (on the serious side)

1. Introduce your mentoree to the following:

Executive Director	Previous Executive Directors
Keynote Speaker	Editor, To Improve the Academy
Conference Coordinator	Grants Program Chair
Core Committee Member (at least 5)	Editor, New Developer's Handbook
Your Friends and Colleagues
2. Explain to him/her the history of the POD Network, its purposes and objectives, organizational structure, and operational style.
3. Discuss with him/her why you are a member of POD, and what role the conference has played in your professional development.
4. On a daily basis, check with your mentoree concerning any questions or concerns that he/she might have. Try to solve problems or find someone who can.
5. Include him/her in activities that you may be doing with friends/colleagues.
6. Attend at least one conference session together each day; make suggestions or recommendations on particular sessions/topics.
7. Introduce him/her to the one person you believe has contributed the most or that you respect the most in the POD Network and explain why.
8. Introduce him/her to at least two POD Members who have attended five or more POD Conferences. Ask them to discuss why they continue to participate.
9. Reflect back on your first POD Conference. Think of the one thing you would have liked to have known, done, or experienced, see if you can help make it happen for your mentoree. (All in good taste!)
10. Arrange for a follow-up activity, e.g., attend a professional conference together, explore the possibility of a joint POD publication or consultancy, or simply agree to meet at the next POD Conference.

POD NETWORK MENTORING PROGRAM

Suggested Activities (on the humorous side)

1. Join in with your mentoree at the Texas Two-Stepping and Clogging Demonstration. (Same sex dancing allowed.)
2. Participate with your partner in the Wreck-ree-ashun activities Saturday nite.
3. Introduce your new friend to Linc. Fisch. (Do you need a reason?)
4. Dine with your mentoree at least once a day. (They don't get any easier than this!)
5. Find at least one after hours party to attend with your protege. (See Linc. Fisch for directions.)
6. Stroll along the lake with your partner and discuss the merits of cocooning or the visioning process.
7. As a newcomer, help him/her locate the closest restroom in case of an emergency (of particular import given the Mexican Feista Dinner).
8. Together learn the "POD Song" and perform it for your fellow passengers on the bus back to San Anton'.
9. See how long it takes to get to one end of the Inn on the Hills to the other with both your right legs tied to one another. (Marillasays about five minutes.)
10. See if by the end of the Conference you can stand to be near one another.

REMEMBER: The relationship that develops between a mentor and protege is likely to involve an emotional bonding. Daniel Levinson likens it to a love relationship -- a relationship never to be taken for granted or abused.

PROFESSIONAL AND ORGANIZATIONAL DEVELOPMENT NETWORK IN HIGHER EDUCATION

October 1, 1987

Dear POD Network Mentor,

Thank you for agreeing to serve as a POD Network Mentor. As you are aware the mentoring relationship is a very special one. Mentors assume the roles of guardian, counselor, confidant and model. Your specific responsibilities will include orienting one or two first-timers to the POD Conference, helping them learn about the inner workings of a professional organization, and introducing them to your colleagues and friends.

At registration you will receive a packet of information including the name(s) of your mentoree, suggested activities lists, articles on the mentoring process, as well as resources should you be interested in initiating your own mentoring program back home.

The mentoring program activities will start with a short getting acquainted session. Please meet in the Patio area at 5:00 p.m. shortly before the Hospitality Hour, Thursday evening. You will be given more complete details at that time.

Again, on behalf of the POD Network, we thank you for giving of yourself to help others. Please feel free to call one of us if you should have any questions.

Sincerely,

ART CRAWLEY
