NEBRASKA HOME EXTENSION STUDY CLUBS

A few years ago groups of women who were in the habit of meeting together, wrote to the Agricultural Extension Service and asked for circulars that might be studied when they hold their meetings. As a result of such requests a number of circulars were prepared and sent to the clubs. These seemed to meet with approval and so the second year more were prepared. The plan has been continued for a number of years as will be seen in the study club enrollment blank.

The circulars are arranged so there is one for each month beginning in September and ending with June. However, clubs may begin at any time and may select as many circulars out of a series as desired. Any club anywhere may enroll for the circulars by securing the enrollment blanks from the agricultural or home agent. There is no fee charged to people who live in Nebraska for the circulars or the yearbooks.

One stitched set of the circulars will be included for the person who has charge of the distribution of the circulars.

Clubs will find that there is material enough in each circular for a good afternoon's study, so it is not advisable to try to handle two circulars in one meeting, nor to try to combine the study club work with the home demonstration project club work. The project club work is different from the study club work in that it consists of demonstrations given by specialists or county home demonstration agents to project leaders who in turn present the demonstrations to the club. The study club work consists of the study of circulars which are mailed to each club member and there are no demonstrations required in connection with the lessons.

When the study club enrollment blank is received a yearbook and the circulars for three months will be mailed for each club member. The first of October letter will be sent to the club which will contain a report blank for September. The blank should be filled in and mailed at once or at least not later than October 15. After that report is received by the agricultural or home agent, then the circulars for December and January will be mailed. The same plan will be followed every two months; that is, on December first a letter will be sent which will include a report for October and November. When that report is received by the agricultural or home agent then the circulars for February and March will be mailed. The advance circulars will be sent upon receipt of the reports which are sent out only every other month.

A letter and the report blanks will be sent only the first of October, December, February, April and June. Reports will be expected only once in two months and the advance mailings will depend upon the reports, so reports are important.

Clubs whose enrollments are received late in the spring and during the summer will receive their first mailing in August unless the club desires to study during the summer and such a statement is given in their request. The new series for the following year will not be available until after August 1.

Clubs are free to use the circulars in any way they wish. Many clubs give the circulars to the members in advance so they can be studied before the meeting. If this plan is followed the one or two leaders to whom the topic has been assigned prepare additional material on the topic which they have studied from other sources. It is fine if all present will enter into the discussion of the topic.
The reading of the circulars in the club meeting is to be discouraged. There is a great deal more growth on the part of the individual members if there can be a kindly discussion upon the topic for the month.

The circulars sent out this year are to be punched and it would add to the interest if each member would prepare an attractive cover for her circulars. This would also help preserve them for future use.

Those who take part in the program are the ones who will have the most enjoyment and receive the greatest benefit from the club work. You know the story of the woman who came home from prayer meeting and said to her husband, "John, that was the best prayer meeting I ever attended--I talked twice." You may not get a chance to "talk twice" this year, but be sure you do not neglect your opportunities, nor disappoint those who are depending upon you to furnish your share of the program.

Early in the year the program committee should assign the topics for discussion to those who are to appear on the program. This will give an opportunity to find things in the current magazines or available libraries pertaining to the subject.

Material listed as Extension Service circulars may be obtained from the agricultural or home agent. Many of the books referred to in the programs may be obtained from the Nebraska Library Commission, State House, Lincoln, Nebraska. The books will be free except for express or postage. Do not send to the Agricultural Extension Service for books for they do not have any books. They can send out only the extension circulars.

THE HOMEMAKER'S CREED

"I believe that the home is the greatest institution in the world.

I believe that the homemaker has the most important task in the world.

I believe that it is my responsibility as a homemaker:

"To insure the purity and sanctity of my home.
To exert such a moral influence in my home that those whose lives I touch may be properly influenced thereby.
To provide for the health of my family by cooking properly and by keeping my home clean and sanitary.
To maintain a real home of cheer, comfort and attractiveness which my family will enjoy.
To help lead my family in the paths of culture, that it may seek and appreciate the better things in life.

I believe that carrying out these duties will require an unlimited amount of determination, patience, perseverance and self-control, but I believe that for this expenditure I shall receive ample and satisfactory returns."

--Mrs. Clyde Barkell
Laramie, Wyoming
"Keep us, O God, from pettiness. Let us be large in thought, in word, in deed.

Let us be done with fault-finding and leave off self-seeking.

May we put away all pretense and meet each other face to face, without self-pity and without prejudice.

Teach us to put into action our better impulses, straightforward and unafraid.

Let us take time for all things; make us grow calm, serene and gentle.

Grant us that we may realize it is the little things that create differences; that in the big things of life we are as one.

And may we strive to touch and to know the great common woman's heart of us all; and, O Lord God, Let us not forget to be kind."

--Mary Stewart.

Study Hour - Why Women Are Interested in
Soil Conservation - Extension Circular 5537

Suggestions for Additional Activities

Have the agricultural agent tell what is being accomplished by the soil conservation work in the county.

Tell about articles which have been read about soil conservation.

Have someone appointed to find out when meetings are to be held in the community which would help people to know more about the soil conservation program throughout the fall and winter. Encourage having the women attend these educational meetings held in connection with soil conservation.

AUGUST FIELDS

The field may rest in August; its desires
For fruitfulness fulfilled; its harvest laid
On safe, high scaffoldings, it now aspires
To nothing more than sleep. The thinning shade
Of the grant hickories scarce stops the sun
Or holds the grassy dew for daylight hours;
The stubbled furrows are all overrun
With the straight-fallen white-weed's toppled towers.

The muted flutes of August softly croon
Among the rushes by the creek's dry bed;
Over the meadow stoops the young, thin moon,
Whetting her sickle though the grass is dead.
The field may rest in August, bravely done,
With this year's labors; yet it holds in trust,
All that man hopes for as the seasons run--
Next summer's promise, ankle-deep in dust.

I have found such joy in simple things:
A plain clean room; a nut brown loaf of bread,
A cup of milk, a kettle when it sings,
The shelter of a roof above my head;
And in a leaf-faced square upon a floor
Where yellow sunlight glimmers through a door.

I have found such joy in things that fill
My quiet days: a curtain's blowing grace,
A growing plant upon a window sill,
A rose fresh-cut and placed within a vase;
A table cleared, a lamp beside a chair,
And books I long have loved, beside me there.

Oh, I have found such joy! I wish I might Tell every woman who goes seeking far
For some elusive, feverish delight,
That very close to home the great joys are:
These fundamental things old as the race,
Yet never through the ages commonplace.

BUILDING

We are building every day
In a good or evil way,
And the structure as it grows
Will our inmost self disclose
Till in every arch and line
All our faults and failings shine.
It may grow a castle grand
Or a wreck upon the sand.

Do you ask what building this
That can show both pain and bliss,
That can be so dark and fair?
Lo, its name is Character.
Build it well whate'er you do,
Build it straight and strong and true,
Build it clear and high and broad,
Build it for the eye of God.

--Dickenga.

Suggestions for Additional Activities
Perhaps your club would be interested in having
"Mystery friends". That is, each member of the club would draw the name of another member without revealing the name drawn. Then on various occasions during the year courtesies would be extended to the friend without revealing one's identity. Birthdays, anniversaries and other special occasions may be remembered. At some designated meeting during the year the "mystery friends" are revealed.

MY GARDEN

A garden is a lovesome thing, God wot!
Rose plot,
Fringed pool,
Ferned grot—
The veriest school
Of peace; and yet the fool
Contends that God is not—
Not God! in gardens! when the eve is cool?
Nay, but I have a sign:
'Tis very sure God walks in mine.
